Intelligence Wins
Rock of Ages, Age of Rocks
Perpetual Light Bulb
Balfour, Yes. Asquith, No

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1922, by Star Co.)

The coal strike shows how well the cunning and intelligent, that have worked to the top of our social system, understand their affairs; how little workers, through their leaders, understand.

For instance, the strike comes because an agreement between miners and mine owners ended and a new agreement must be reached.

Observe that the agreement ends April 1—when there isn't much demand for coal and when the mine owners can afford a strike. It doesn't come October 1, when the loss would be greatest to the mine owners.

Observe also that mine owners have on hand, stored along railroad tracks, in coal yards, etc., enough coal to last three months. That being the case, many men would have been laid off at the mines anyhow. The owners don't care whether the miners work or not. They will get a high price for the coal that is stored, and for the present save 100 per cent. of their payroll. When the strike ends, as it will end, they will have sold their surplus at a nice profit. The demand for coal will be great, prices will be stabilized at a higher average, and the mining business will go gaily on—perhaps with the unions more or less demoralized.

The mine owners know where and how to hire intelligence, and pay well for it. The workmen, to a sad extent, remind you of the man that "never forgot an enemy or remembered a friend." They forget those that help them, they do not adequately reward good leadership.

Mr. Bryan says that it is more important to know the "Rock of Ages" than the age of rocks. More important, perhaps, and certainly easier. But while "Rock of Ages" is a beautiful and inspiring hymn to know, the age of rocks also has its value, even a value that will appeal to Mr. Bryan apart from evolution and the question as to whether or not his ancestors were monkeys before they moved to Nebraska.

For instance, men in search of coal mines spent millions of dollars in useless boring all over creation until one piece of information as to the age of rock enabled them to stop wasting money in that particular way.

A scientist who knew the "Rock of Ages" AND the age of rocks, said to the mine seekers: "When your bore brings to the surface a stone formation of this particular kind, dig down no further. For that stone is of greater age than any coal deposit on earth. It dates back millions of years beyond the carboniferous era when coal was made."

Formerly, when bores met the particular kind of rock formation mentioned, they went right on, still boring for coal. When the matter was called to their attention they began comparing notes and found that, as a matter of fact, they never had found any coal below that formation. Now, when they come to it, they stop and try somewhere else. There is value in knowing the age of rock.

Some earnest scientific men—NOT sellers of get-rich-quick stock—are working at the production of an electric bulb that, once charged with electricity, will continue to supply light without any further current for a year, possibly longer. This sounds to the ignorant like the old "perpetual motion" over again. But ignorance is always suspicious.

Scientists tell you that every cubic millimeter of the ether contains stored up and ready to be released, and used some day, as much power as would be generated by a million kilowatt power running continuously for several million years. This means that a mass of the ether, smaller than the tip end of your little finger, could store up enough electric power to run all the machinery of the United States for years. Men may eventually store light by some process preventing waste, as they store heat in thermos bottles. The firefly has a lighting system far excelling any made by man. It produces light without heat—no combustion.

Arthur Balfour accepts a peerage and goes down instead of up in the estimation of intelligent Englishmen.

Mrs. Asquith, whose father and grandfathers were builders of industrial England, was asked by a reporter, "I suppose you know all the aristocratic families of England?"

She replied, "No, I don't, but my maid does." Her husband, for many years Prime Minister, declined, as Gladstone did, the "honors" with which Balfour decorates himself in his old age. The strange part of it is that Balfour has no children. If you happen to have children without brains, a title is an excellent thing to leave them. It brings distinction of a sort without ef-

SINN FEIN SOLDIERS DEFEATED

Desperate Fighting in the Sperrin Mountains in County Tyrone

By International News Service.

London, April 4.—Twenty-five rebels from the Irish Republican army are reported to have been killed in battle with Irish Free State troops in a violent battle in Sperrin mountains in County Tyrone, according to a Central News despatch from Dublin.

By International News Service.

Dublin, April 4.—The first clash between mutineers of the Irish Republican army and Irish Free State troops occurred today when the Irish Free State troops were attacked in two separate districts of the city by rebels.

The mutineers opened fire with revolvers, which was returned by the soldiers supporting the Irish Provisional Government. Finally the Staters charged with fixed bayonets, putting the rebels to flight.

The Free Staters sustained no casualties. The casualties of the mutineers, are not known.

Parts of the city were thrown into panic, the residents believing the Republicans were attempting their long heralded coup against the Irish Provisional Government and that civil war had broken out.

Banks and public buildings were under heavy guard of Irish Free State troops, following a night of terror, when the streets echoed with rifle fusillades and the bursting of bombs.

Roads leading into Cork have been blocked by the rebels. Free Staters

700,000 Shares Are Sold in 2 Hours on N. Y. Exchange

New York, April 4.—Over 700,000 shares changed hands in the first two hours of today's trading on the Stock Exchange, mostly at gains of 1 to 3 points.

This volume of business has not been approached since the excited markets of the World War, when daily transactions of 1,500,000 to almost 2,000,000 shares were not uncommon.

U. S. Steel made a new high for the year at 98⅛, but reacted before noon with other favorites, the temptation to take profits proving a pronounced factor.

PASTOR WHO FLED WITH GIRL IS FINED $500

Newark, N. J., April 4. — Rev. Cornelius Densel, former pastor of the New Netherlands Reform Church of Passaic, was fined $500 today after pleading guilty to violation of the Mann Act. Federal Judge Lynch said he felt the clergyman had suffered enough, so he would not send him to jail. The minister left his family and his flock in the Fall of 1920 and disappeared with Miss Trina Hanneburg, a member of his congregation. They returned a few months later.

PAUL HENDERSON IN LINE FOR POSTOFFICE BERTH

Washington, April 4 (By the Associated Press).—President Harding will send to the Senate soon the nomination of Paul Henderson of Chicago, to be second assistant postmaster general, it was learned today at the White House. Henderson is a son-in-law of Chairman Madden of the House Appropriations Committee.

COLLEGE WILL EXPEL BOYS FOUND DRINKING

Newport News, Va., April 4.—The student council at William and Mary College has voted to expel any man found under the influence of liquor after he has once been warned. The Flat Hat, official college publication, says that "during the last month there has been more drinking than in the entire year previous to that time."

UNSETTLED WEATHER ON BOSTON PROGRAM

Unsettled weather with occasional showers is Boston's weather menu for today and tomorrow. Weather man says it is cloudy all over the country, with rain falling in Southern New England. Northfield, Vt., is the coldest spot in the country, 30 above zero.

HARVEY WON'T BE SENT TO GENOA

Washington, April 4.—Ambassador Harvey is not going to Genoa as an unofficial American observer at the economic conference, it was officially announced at the White House today.

N. Y. BANDITS ROB WOMAN CASHIER OF $800

New York, April 4.—Today a bandit jumped from an automobile in upper Third avenue, snatched $800 from Hannah Ridell, cashier for J. Bauman & Bro., and escaped in his car with a confederate.

EDDIE LOWERY LEADING FIELD AT PINEHURST

Pinehurst, N. C., Aril 4.—Edward Lowery of the North Fork Golf Club, Dedham, Mass., was leading the field in the qualifying round of the North and South amateur golf championship with a card of 80—74 for thirty-six holes today, with half the field completed.

FLIERS READY FOR SECOND LAP OF OCEAN FLIGHT

Lisbon, April 4 (By the Associated Press).—Wireless messages from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, today, stated that the two Portuguese aviators who are attempting a flight from Portugal to Brazil were preparing today to make another start on the second leg of their trip to the Cape Verde Islands.

COAKLEY'S TRIAL ON APRIL 17

Date for Hearing on Disbarment Petition Fixed by Justice Jenney

Justice Jenney of the Supreme Court today set Monday, April 17, as the date for the beginning of the disbarment trial of Daniel H. Coakley.

He announced this date after a conference in the lobby with James J. McCarthy and Andrew Marshall, representing the Boston Bar Association, and Coakley and W. Minot Hurd.

Coakley will be given a hearing on a petition filed by the Bar Association asking his disbarment. Although it is not definitely known which justice will preside, indications are that it will be Justice Jenney.

Immediately after the Coakley case, the court will take up the petition for the disbarment of Joseph C. Pelletier, recently removed as district attorney for Suffolk County.

VATICAN PROTEST ON GENOA CONFERENCE

Rome, April 4 (By International News Service).—It is understood that Pope Pius XI. is sending a note to the sponsor of the Genoa conference expressing the hope of the Roman Catholic church that it will bring about disarmament. Furthermore, it is understood that the note protests because the Vatican has not been allowed to take a direct part in the conference.

The Osservatore Romano, the official organ of the Vatican, today appealed to the European powers to show mercy to the unfortunate family of Charles, late Emperor of Austria. The Pope has sent a message of condolence to ex-Empress Zita at Funchal.

SAVES CHILDREN LOCKED IN BURNING DWELLING

Springfield, April 4.—Locked in a room of their burning home in a remote section of West Springfield, two young children of E. P. Ivashko were rescued today by a neighbor who broke in through a window, and after dragging the children to safety summoned the fire department. The house and barn, valued at $8,000, were destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Ivashko were in this city on business.

MONTHS OF DELAY ON FORD'S OFFER LIKELY

Washington, April 4.—It will be at least six months and probably a year before Congress will reach a decision on Henry Ford's offer to take over the government's nitrate plants and water power projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., Senator Norris declared today when consideration of the offer was resumed.

HOLD MORRILL DIVORCE SUIT CONFERENCE

Effort to Settle Case Out of Court; Manufacturer Names Two Men

The divorce case of Leon G. Morrill, who charges Mrs. Florence R. Morrill with infidelity, naming two corespondents, began today in Dedham Court with an extended conference between attorneys and the court in an effort to settle the case out of court.

The discussion was over the custody of the Brookline couple's two children, Russell G. Morrill, fourteen years old, and Margaret M. Russell, twelve years old.

The discussion halted another case being heard by Judge Nelson S. Brown, and delayed the formal opening of the divorce suit, for which a galaxy of Brookline folk and an imposing array of legal talent had gathered at the courthouse.

Seth K. Chase, former statistician for Lee, Higginson & Co., and Douglas S. Carter, named as co-respondents, are both represented by counsel.

Many witnesses are expected to give sensational testimony. Among those on hand at the opening of the trial were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell, parents of Mrs. Morrill.

TOSS OF COIN SETTLES TOWN'S $2.95 TAX RATE

Dartmouth, N. S., April —A toss of a coin decided the 1922 rate for Dartmouth. The six town councilors split 3-3 on a $2.95 rate after debating a proposal for $2.90, sponsored by Mayor Mosher, who refused to break the tie. It was agreed to toss a coin. His worship lost and voted for $2.95.

SUCCESSOR TO GANDHI ORDERS DEMONSTRATION

Bombey, India, April —Malaviya, successor to Mohandas Gandhi, as leader of the Indian non-co-operationists (Nationalists) has ordered a demonstration at Lucknow in protest against the imprisonment of Gandhi. It will take place today unless prevented by the authorities.

Swaps Bag Containing Over $15,000 While Riding on Car

Edward C. Smith of No. 341 Highland avenue, West Somerville, electrician at a Boston theatre, reported to the Somerville police today that while riding in a Highland avenue inbound car to Boston he picked up a woman's handbag in the car, mistaking it for his own, which he carried with him.

His bag, he stated, contained Liberty Bonds valued at $1,300, bank books showing deposits of $12,000, and jewels valued at $250, besides a quantity of War Savings Stamps.

He did not discover his mistake until some time after leaving the car, when he took the bag to the police and reported his loss.

'HONEY' HAZZARD JAILED FOR CONTEMPT

Arthur "Honey" Hazzard, colored, famous since his trip to Nashua, N. H., from Ayer with Miss Mabel E. Puffer, daughter of a prominent Ayer family, was today found guilty of contempt by Judge Keating in Superior Court and ordered to jail until he returns to the woman $3,200 in cash and other personal property taken from her, the court ruled, when "she was insane."

Hazzard was taken to the East Cambridge Jail.

His trip to New Hampshire became famous when details described Miss Puffer as suffering under a delusion that God had ordered her to marry Charles McKee, a phantom person.

With Hazzard she went to New Hampshire to wed, but the plan was thwarted. While under her delusion the woman, it was testified, showered her negro companion with money and gifts.

WOMEN FLEE BACK BAY DENS

Lid Clamped on Night Life Following Pauline Clark Death Revelations

Fear amounting to panic is rampant among the luxuriously furnished kitchenette apartments of the Back Bay "party" belt today, as the result of last night's spectacular raid on Suite 5, No. 55 Astor street.

This raid, in which seven young girls and three men were corralled by the police, is regarded as the beginning of the police drive in the Back Bay promised as a result of the double deaths of Pauline Virginia Clark and Otto Haldor Larsen.

Ever since the revelations of the double tragedy centred public eyes on conditions in that district, the numerous "hostesses" have lived in a state of constant alarm.

Several luxurious apartments have been hurriedly stripped of their expensive furnishings, and their tenants have departed for "parts unknown."

In those apartments where the tenants have remained there has been a noticeable toning down of the night orgies. Noisy guests have become taboo, and strange faces, once welcomed, have been barred.

Phonographs, which were wont to grind out motley melody until dawn, heralded the end of a perfect night, have been switched off promptly at 10 o'clock. In those few instances where tenants have "taken a chance" by playing the canned music after that curfew hour they have been rudely reminded of a changed world by the appearance of the policeman on the beat.

7 YOUNG GIRLS IN ROXBURY COURT

Police Seek Millionaire as Host of Party Which Was Raided

The aftermath of the gay Back Bay party raided by the police, in which a millionaire Boston manufacturer escaped while seven baby-faced girls and three men were arrested, came today in Roxbury Court with the elements of the staged drama in which song and dance gave way to grief when grim law made a solemn affair of what the girls had considered a lark.

Held in $1,000 bail each for a hearing on April 13, while it is hinted a warrant will be issued for the prominent Boston man said to have been the host, the seven girls of the chorus type known as "ponies," who had gay-heartedly jazz stepped in the corridors in the courthouse basement left court the picture of gloom.

Gone was the pirouette to their three-strap pumped feet; gone the jaunty air to their smart tweed suits. Even the ornaments nodded gloomily from their latest straw hats. For facing them now is the stigma that comes from the baring of a riotous revel in which they took part.

ALL IN THEIR TEENS.

Seven little girls, all in their teens, although some say they are as old as twenty-two. They had gayly danced in the courtroom corridors below, humming, their limbs silk clad, their pumps glittering patent leather, arched high with modish French heels.

Past gloomy cells they had twirled and reversed, a harmony of motion and song.

Now the sternness of the law faces them. They must tell all the details of the revel from which they were torn when reserves from the Back Bay Station crashed into the apartment.

Suite 8 at No. 55 Astor street was the place raided. Arrested were:

Marie Goodwin, 17 years, of No. 197 Harvard street, Cambridge.

Helen Parson, 18 years, of No 117 Meridian street, East Boston.

Madeline Harrington, 18 years, of oN. 44 Chapman street, Charlestown.

Florence Gallagher, 18 years, of oN. 28 Elm street, Cambridge.

Eva Lavelle, 17 years, of No. 194 Harvard street, Cambridge.

Louise Martelle, 22 years, of No. 342 Ocean street, Providence.

Marguerite Loud, 23 years, of No. 225 Broadway, Providence.

Frank Sharkey, 26 years, of No. 55 Astor street.

Leonard Scaffidi, 25 years, of No. 55 Astor street.

John Ricco, 27 years, of No. 1008 Washington street.

MILLIONAIRE HOST.

The apartment is occupied by Sharkey and Scaffidi. But it was the millionaire host who supplied what makes revels gay. First believed to have been a Providence millionaire, he is known to be a prominent Boston manufacturer whose name is in the hands of the police. With his arrest, police charge, will come startling revelations.

"It was only an innocent little party," said Louise Mantelle, in the corridor of the court. "There was nothing wrong. We had just dropped in when the police came."

"That was all it was," said Eva Lavelle, pulling a fur-trimmed coat about her shapely shoulders and pouting. "Why," she exclaimed, "it was just going to be a quiet evening."

Neighbors, however, sought the police with the complaint that the "goings on were terrible."

Police say they have much to tell when the trial comes on April 13. What they discovered when the doors were forced they refused to divulge.

MADE FLYING WEDGE.

Newspaper photographers would like to know why the seven girls were surrounded with more than fifty able-bodied looking males when court had disposed of the case and swept them out of the building in a flying-wedge formation.

Up the street they were rushed and the first chapter in another Back Bay revel was written.

Previous to the hearing today the seven jazz-clad girls had spent the early morning hours in the House of Detention. It was from there they were taken to the courthouse and lodged in cells in the basement. It was previous to their temporary confinement that they terpsichored gayly, only to ruin pretty complexions later with great big splashy tears.

Ousted R. I. Strikers Can Live Free of Rents in Tents

Pawtucket, R. I., April 4.—Textile strikers may be ejected from their homes can live in tents without paying rent.

Organizer Thomas announced at a meeting of strikers today that Thomas Cheetham had given to the strikers the use of a lot measuring 1,800 by 200 feet. The offer was accepted.

During a meeting of textile strikers today Organizer Thomas asked a special officer to leave. As he reached the door one of the strikers hit him. Others rushed at him. He drew his revolver and held them at bay. Someone then closed the door, separating the officer and strikers.

Strike sympathizers threw stones at workers on their way to the plant of the United States Cotton Company today.

CITY PAYS $5,000 FOR EAST BOSTON OVERFLOW

Claims growing out of the overflow of the East Boston tunnel which did damage to cellars in Maverick, Cottage, Porter and Everett streets in East Boston have been settled by the city law department of more than $5,000. There were thirty-one suits and they range from $60, which will be paid to Morris Rosen, of No. 85 Cottage street, and Angelo Penta, of No. 190 Cottage street, who will receive $750.

PEACE MOVE TO END LAWRENCE STRIKE SEEN

Definite Action by State Board of Conciliation Is Believed to Be Near

Lawrence, April 4.—Widening of the split between the United Textile Workers and the One Big Union and the report that the State Board of Arbitration will soon make a definite effort to bring about settlement through arbitration featured the local textile strike today.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, was expected to confer with the board at Boston.

McMahon intends to accept the offer of a New York labor organization to provide 100 girls who will take up collections for strikers' relief. They will be stationed in several New England cities.

Ben Legere, leader of the One Big Union, will remain here and address a mass meeting on the common.

Legere said today he was organizing an ex-service men's battalion within his main organization. He said these members have petitioned for the use of the Amesbury street State Armory for a mass meeting tomorrow.

Legere stated that, if necessary, a sympathetic strike would be attempted to show the public is behind the operatives. He said an effort would be made to bring all lines of local labor to a standstill, as was done in Winnipeg, but only for a twenty-four-hour period.

The committee of seven clergymen appointed by Mayor Mahoney is expected to meet Thursday. Legere said he was prepared to offer the committee data showing it is impossible for the workers to live on the reduced wages.

AIDS CURLEY IN FIGHT TO CUT INSURANCE RATE

Mayor Curley received a letter today from the board of fire underwriters, who pledged their support in the Mayor's efforts to borrow $2,000,000 outside the debt limit for extension of the high pressure service. The Mayor will petition the legislature. By completion of high pressure service, the Mayor believes insurance rates will be cut 30 per cent. in the downtown district.

LEWIS IN TILT WITH BLACK ON STRIKE ISSUES

Miners' Chief Says Cut in Hours Would Be Made Up by Increased Efficiency

Uniontown, Pa., April 4.—Coal operators here announced today that miners who refused to join the strike throughout Fayette County were being intimidated by strikers. There were demonstrations at various mining towns near here and Brownsville, and some non-union men refused to continue work as they were frightened by threats. More State troopers have been sent to this region. At Maxwell strikers cut transmission wires of the West Pennsylvania Power Company.

Washington, April 4.—Miners' demands for a six-hour day and five-day week, issues involved in the national coal strike, were described by John J. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, in continuing his testimony today before a House Committee, as largely a move to force regularity of employment.

"Men employed by the day," he said, "would receive the same wages that they are now getting, and put in less time, but the miners who dig coal would be paid as they are now for the number of tons of coal they produce."

SAYS PUBLIC WOULD PAY.

Representatives Black, Democrat, Texas calculated that if the five-day, six-hour demand was granted, "the public would pay $224,000,000 additional for the same amount of coal they are now getting each year."

"Who will that come out of?" Mr. Black demanded after figuring up his total.

"Nobody," Mr. Lewis retorted, because your figures are absurd. I can't follow your mental gyrations on this subject in the field of mathematics."

Mr. Black pressed his calculations.

"Congressman, when the 12-hour day was changed to the ten-hour day," Mr. Lewis interrupted, "the efficiency was increased, and the production per man per day increased. The same effect continued when the ten-hour day was cut to eight hours. The efficiency increased more than sufficient to make up the loss. The fact has been authoritatively determined and universally recognized."

CITES BUYING POWER.

Black declared that "while wages of anthracite miners now can purchase 18 per cent. more than they could in 1920, the purchasing power of the farmer in my territory has been cut 50 per cent. since 1920," and asked Mr. Lewis:

"Do you think that industrial and transportation workers can long withstand the pressure to have them take some of the loss, too?"

"It is well to remember that during the war farmers got the advantage of great inflation in their prices and profits," Mr. Lewis replied "while we contend that mine workers were never able to get the full increases in living cost represented in their wage advances."

Why Some Union Coal Men Stay at Work

Indianapolis, April 4. (By International News Service)—At union headquarters continuance of work by miners in certain states was explained in this fashion:

Union officials are not opposed to continuance of work by negro miners in Alabama, who had long been idle because of difficulties in that field. They likewise, it was stated, are not opposed to union men working in West Virginia, storm zone of unionism, where many men have long been out of work.

Tennessee miners are considered automatically removed from the union by their action in continuing work, because, it was explained, the United Mine Workers are not a party to the contract in force there.

Western Kentucky miners are authorized to continue work because of an overlapping contract there which has a year to run.

Coal Strike Is 100 P. C. Effective, Says Lewis

Washington, April 4.—The miners' strike in all union districts, both anthracite and bituminous, is 100 per cent. effective, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, declared today after going over reports to him from union leaders.

"Every man ordered out has gone out and is staying out," he declared. "From the non-union districts, where we have hopes of sympathetic action by unorganized men, my reports are scattering and insufficient to allow me to make a statement."

Men See First Break In Operators' Ranks

New York, April 4.—The anthracite miners' general scale committee will meet here tomorrow to act on the reported offer of several independent producers to grant the strikers' nineteen wage demands immediately if they will return to their jobs.

Acceptance of these offers, hailed by the union men as "the first break in the ranks of the operators," may result in the negotiation of separate contracts and the re-opening of the mines affected, according to district presidents of the United Mine Workers' International.

Negro Wounds Miner, "Shoots Up" Buildings

Clinton, Ind., April 4.—As a result of the first violence in connection with the coal strike in Indiana, police and county authorities are seeking a negro, who shot and seriously wounded Elmer Williams, a miner.

Williams, passing Miami mine No. 8, where he worked, attempted to stop the negro "shooting up" mine buildings, he said.

Williams probably will live. The assailant's motive in shooting into the buildings is a mystery, as no one was at work.

nightly in front of certain doors, have been dismissed around the corner for the last few weeks. Departing guests no longer meet their chauffeurs without the portals. They find James waiting "around the corner." Inconvenient, but safer.

LESS LIQUOR NOW.

Certain suites where liquor flowed freely and mysterious messengers, heavily laden with equally mysterious bundles, provided any desired beverage from moonshine to champagne at any hour of the day or night, have been of late innocent of strong drink.

"Go out of town if you want to drink," is the password of the district now. Guests who neglect to follow it generally find the apartment tenants "not at home."

Several landlords of large apartment dwellings which have figured in police annals in the past have so far unbent as to make calls on their tenants.

Some of these property holders had not been in the apartments for years previous. But nowadays they are likely to be found around at almost any hour.

Tenants who persist in loud talking, phonograph playing and other noise making at night are first warned to stop, and if they don't are then requested to vacate.

The landlords are taking no chances. Under the law they can be held responsible for immoral acts of their tenants.

There has been a noticeable decline in telephone calls to and from certain apartments. The belief that in preparing for a series of spectacular raids the police are "listening in" to get information is responsible for this.

SEVERAL MOVE AWAY.

Many apartments which were formerly the scene of much gaiety during the evening are now deserted promptly at sundown. The charming hostesses find dinner at a hotel and an evening at the theatre or a trip to some out of town road house outside the province of the local police a more healthy and restful way of spending an evening.

Several of the most popular hostesses, at whose small but luxurious suites the wealthier college men and scions of families prominent financially and socially were frequently entertained, have locked the doors of their apartments on the outside, and betaken themselves to hotels.

"Until it blows over," is the way they explain the length of the change of residence.

BOSTON BOUND VESSEL IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Cable advices from Balboa, Canal Zone, today report that the steamship Iowan, en route from San Francisco to Boston, put in there yesterday with a fire in one of her holds. The fire was extinguished but repairs will have to be made before the Iowan can proceed. The hold was filled with wool, hides and Oriental linoleums.

Wright 'Smoked Up' in Court; Then He Was in Wrong

Jail has no terrors for Edward J. Wright of Needham.

While sitting in the prisoners' dock in Dedham District Court today, waiting to be taken to the House of Correction to begin a two-months sentence for larceny of $300 from the William Carter Company of Needham, he calmly extracted a cigar from his pocket, struck a match and "smoked up."

Court Officer Walter Bagley hastened to the cage and ordered Wright to put the cigar out.

The court had just turned to listen to another case when Wright picked up the discarded cigar and relighted it. This time Bagley took away his matches and other cigars.

CHARGE WOMAN TRIED TO FLEE WITH $50 GEM

Caught attempting to flee with a $50 diamond ring from Long's jewelry store, Summer street, according to the police, Margaret Feeney, twenty-eight years old, of No. 208 West Ninth street, South Boston, was arraigned in Municipal Court today

The police declare she has a court record.

'DIE HARDS' TO RENEW FIGHT ON PREMIER

Obtain Right to Introduce a Lack of Confidence Motion in Commons

By DAVID M. CHURCH
By International News Service.

London, April 4.—Despite the big majority of 295 votes secured by Premier Lloyd George in support of his Genoa program, the Tory "die-hards" in the House of Comons announced today that they would renew their battle against the Premier tomorrow night.

Led by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Bart., a coalition unionist, a group of Tories secured the right to introduce a motion in Commons expressing a lack of confidence in the Lloyd George government. Supporters of the Premier predict that it will meet with overwhelming defeat.

Russia to Make 6 Demands at Genoa

Berlin, April 4.—The Russo-German agreement worked out by the Soviet delegation to the Genoa Conference and representatives of the German government began to bear fruit today. In compliance with the understanding which provides mutual guarantees not to allot propaganda against the existing form of government in Berlin or Moscow, the Russian delegation suppressed the local Bolshevik newspaper.

The Russians also have suppressed all subsidies to German Communist newspapers. The Russian economic experts, headed by Leonid Krassin, received instructions to make the following demands at the Genoa Conference:

1—Freedom of the seas.

2—Recognition of the Soviet mercantile flag.

3—Free entrance for Russian ships to all harbors.

4—Restoration to their owners of all Russian ships seized in foreign ports.

5—Restitution for Russian maritime tonnage lost while being utilized by the belligerents during the war.

6—Participation by Russia in the International Commission which will control the Dardanelles in case the Turkish Straits are neutralized.

WHITE CALLED WIFE A 'FOOL' AND HUMILIATED HER, SAYS SON

CLUBMAN WANTED DIVORCE

Witness Tells of Seeing Father and Housekeeper on Bungalow Porch in Jamaica

Henry K. White, Harvard graduate, class of '19, the twenty-five-old son of Henry White, millionaire clubman being sued by his wife, Mrs. Nora K. White, for separate support, today told of finding his father at Kingston, Jamaica, on the porch of a pretty bungalow overlooking the sea "with Miss Katherine Fitch."

Miss Fitch was White's housekeeper at Pepperell.

She is forty-two years old.

White said he stumbled across the couple at the famed resort in January of this year.

The elder White is still there.

Mrs. White had charged White with improper conduct with the woman.

Charles Fitch, Tech student, a cousin of Miss Fitch, followed the younger White on the witness stand and testified that he had endeavored to get Miss Fitch to come back from Jamaica because of her father's illness.

"She refused to come back," he said.

HURRY CALL FOR WHITE.

Attorneys for the elder White have cabled him to hurry back to testify in his own defence.

Fitch also told of a ship's clock having been given Miss Fitch by White on the occasion of her last birthday. He said he spent his Summers at Pepperell and had seen the clock there.

Other sensational testimony came from the younger White. He told of a conversation he had with his father in which his father had said: "I'll never live with your mother again. I am going after an absolute divorce.

"I will put Louise (a daughter) on the witness stand and tear her from limb to limb."

"'I will stand squarely behind my mother,' I told him," said the witness.

Home life in the palatial White residence was anything but pleasant, young White testified. He said that meals were very strained and that "everybody was glad to get them over with."

FATHER RUDE TO MOTHER.

"For no reason at all my father was rude to my mother, especially before guests. He humiliated her often." He characterized his parent's treatment as "cruel and abusive," but not of "physical violence."

Questioned concerning his trip to Jamaica, he said:

"I went there in January. I found my father sitting on the veranda of a pretty bungalow overlooking the sea. With him was Miss Fitch."

In further testifying he declared that his father had spoken to him of his mother as "a fool."

Robert A. Dodge, counsel for Mrs. White, offered as evidence a letter written by the elder White to the American counsel at Kingston, referring to his "long intended departure with his housekeeper."

There was a bitter wrangle among counsel over the admissibility of the evidence, and the court reserved decision.

Charlotte Kent, sister of Mrs. White, testified that for fourteen years she had not been allowed by White to see the three children.

"He was jealous of my love for the kiddies," she said, "and their love for me."

White she characterized as "a gentleman when not disturbed."

POLICE COMMISSIONER POSED AT HIS DESK

HERBERT A. WILSON

Posed for the Boston American in his office at Pemberton square today immediately after assuming charge of the police department.

WILSON TAKES UP TASK OF COMMISSIONER

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson took command at Boston police headquarters today with probably less ostentation than any similar official was ever inducted into office.

Leaving the State House, where he had a brief conference with Governor Channing Cox, the commissioner walked to Pemberton square. As he passed through the square District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, who was associated with the new commissioner four years at the State House, stepped to the balcony of the courthouse and waving his hand cried:

"Good luck, Herb!"

The commissioner waved back and strolled slowly on. At the foot of the steps leading to headquarters he was met by Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, who greeted him warmly. They ascended the steps together. Just inside the door was Patrolman George Durkee, one of the oldest men on the force, for years outside guard of Chief Inspector John R. McGarr's office.

The commissioner shook hands with the veteran and went on upstairs to his own office.

He greeted the newspapermen cordially and posed for pictures.

"I have no determined policies," he declared, adding that he would aim to treat everyone fairly.

His office was a veritable flower garden, littered with tributes from friends and associates. On his desk were more than a hundred congratulatory telegrams.

MAYOR REFUSES HEARING ON GYMNASIUM

Mayor Curley today refused the request of the City Council for a public hearing on the question of recalling the money appropriated for a municipal gymnasium in South Boston.

Councillors James T. Moriarty and Frank Ford led the fight in the council chamber yesterday on the grounds that the citizens should be given a chance to voice their sentiments in regard to the erection of the gymnasium.

In the Peters' administration it was voted by the council to spend $340,000 for a gymnasium. This was upon the order of Councillor Moriarty. About $50,000 has been spent for site and plans.

Mayor Curley wants the council to recall the balance of this amount so he can spend it on further improvements to the Christopher J. Lee (M street), South Boston; Christopher Gibson, Dorchester; Eagle Hill, Allston, and North End Park playgrounds.

Mayor Curley said: "The gymnasium proposition has already been disposed of. I certainly will not call a public meeting. The Council will either recall the gymnasium project or the playground development in the city will stop for this year.

"I have no quarrel with the Council, but you can't have your apple and eat it. The increase in interest in the twilight games on the playgrounds of the city is remarkable. Between 3,000 to 5,000 persons are obliged to stand. In Dorchester as many as 20,000 have witnessed games in one week."

8 HELD IN PLOT TO SELL GIRL IN SLAVERY

By International News Service.

Chicago, April 4.—Seven men and a woman are under arrest in a plot to kidnap Martha J. Janicek, sixteen years old, daughter of an Oak Park minister. White slavery is believed to have been the motive of the abduction plot.

The girl was leaving the office where she worked Saturday when a young man approached her and suggested an evening's entertainment, she told the police. On his representation that he would obtain an automobile to drive her home, she said she accompanied him to an apartment on the West Side. There, the girl declares, she was held prisoner without food for two days.

The men and the woman told her on Sunday night, Miss Janicek said, that they had arranged to sell her to a road house, but that if she would get another girl for them they would pay her a commission. She telephoned a girl friend, who told Miss Janicek's father, and he told the police. A raid on the flat, liberation of the girl and arrest of her alleged abductors followed.

FORMER CHEF IS HELD IN RESTAURANT FIRE

MARY GARDEN OFFERED $250,000 FOR SEASON

San Francisco, April 4.—Mary Garden has received from Charles L. Wagner, her former manager, an offer of $250,000 for a season's concert tour, and if the Chicago Opera Company desires to keep her it must meet that figura, acording to a statement accredited to Miss Garden's secretary today.

REPORT YOUNG WHARTON HAS QUIT HARVARD

Father of Pauline Clark's Friend Denies Rumor That Son Was Expelled

Bayard Wharton, wealthy young Philadelphian supposed to have been engaged to Pauline Virginia Clark, who recently killed herself in her Back Bay apartment, is in seclusion today at his father's home in Philadelphia, while rumors that he had been dropped from Harvard University were widespread in Cambridge.

At the office of the dean inquiries met with a refusal to affirm or deny the report of young Wharton's expulsion. The only statement made was that relations between that office and students of the institution are strictly confidential.

The young man's room-mate also declined to comment upon the report that Wharton had been requested to leave college by the authorities.

According to private despatches from Philadelphia today Henry Wharton, wealthy retired business man and member of one of the Quaker City's oldest and most prominent families, denied that his son had been expelled. He refused to discuss the rumor further however.

It was learned, however, that the young man is keeping closely to his home and has refused to see interviewers or to talk over the telephone.

His mother, when questioned regarding the report from Cambridge, said merely:

"I do not believe Mr. Wharton wishes to make any statement on this matter."

Asked if she would make any comment upon the report she said:

"I will not. I don't think there is anything to be said."

Wharton was a guest at the fatal party, and with Otto Haldor Larsen, the Norwegian student of chemistry at Technology, who later took his own life by drinking poison from the same vial used by Miss Clark, were with the girl when she gulped down the poison and died.

Following the tragedy young Wharton vanished for forty-eight hours, after having given his version of the suicide to the press.

According to report, Wharton and Larsen were apparently both deeply in love with the girl. At the suicide party she is said to have announced her engagement to the young Philadelphian, who remained silent.

Judge Prest in Probate Court today appointed Mrs. Sara Herrick administratrix of her daughter's estate. She was represented by Attorney Joseph J. Donahue.

Creditors, claiming $1,500, were represented by Attorney George D. Baker of the firm of White & Barnes. Attorney Baker attempted to have Michael J. Sughrue appointed administrator, and, failing, withdrew his claims on the estate.

Mrs. Herrick will not attend the inquest into the death of her daughter and young Larsen. Attorney Donahue stated that Mrs. Herrick has not been summonsed to the inquest and can furnish no information which would aid the authorities.

CURTIS ESTATE GOES TO MEMBERS OF FAMILY

The will of the late Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis was filed in Probate Court today. There were no public bequests and until an inventory is filed the amount of the estate will not be known. Mrs. Margaret Maud Curtis, widow of the late commissioner and his brother, Nelson were named executors.

To Mrs. Curtis were left all household effects, use of the home at No. 131 Bay State road, free from taxes and expense during her life and automobiles, horses, carriages and equipment.

The residue of the estate is left in trust for the brother, Nelson Curtis and the widow of the deceased. From the fund so created Mrs. Curtis is to be paid annually half of the income, while the other half is to be divided equally between two daughters, Penelope and Margaret Curtis. When the daughters reach the age of twenty-five, the will reads, they are to get a portion of the principal.

LONE BANK BANDIT CAUGHT AFTER CHASE

Washington, April 4.—A lone bandit, working in the shadow of the United States Treasury, seized nearly $8,000 from the receiving teller's cage of the Merchants' Bank & Trust Company. He was captured by the teller, Samuel April, after a thrilling chase through crowded streets and a hand-to-hand battle, in which the yeggman was quickly bested by the slim little teller.

ONLY 4 OF 51,318,422 PASSENGERS KILLED

Ottawa, Ont., April 4.—Four passengers killed out of a total of 51,318,422 carried on Canadian railroads during 1921 was the report to Parliament made by the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada. Passengers injured during the year numbered 240. Of the 185,177 employes engaged in railway work 91 were killed and 1,344 injured, the report stated. Highway crossing accidents during the year resulted in the death of 70 persons and the injury of 214.

URGE LEGISLATURE TO BACK ANTI-LYNCH BILL

A delegation of colored citizens, headed by W. Monroe Trotter, today appealed to the House Rules Committee to adopt a resolution calling upon Congress to pass the Dyer anti-lynch bill. Trotter said that in the past twenty-five years there have been 4,000 lynchings in this country. He said that Massachusetts, birthplace of the Abolitionists and seat of law and order, ought to raise its voice in protest.

ARMY OFFICER SLAIN BY JUDGE IN OKLAHOMA

Gun Explodes as Jurist Hits Officer Whom He Finds Struggling With Wife

Oklahoma City, April 4.—Lieutenant-Colonel Paul Ward Beck, commandant of post field, Fort Sill, was shot and almost instantly killed here today at the home of J. P. Day, prominent Oklahoma financier and until recently a judge of the State Supreme Court.

Judge Day was being held following the shooting and it was said that a charge of murder would be formally filed against him.

The shooting, according to the police, came as the aftermath of a party held at Judge Day's home. The judge leaving Beck in the house took some of his guests home in his automobile. When he returned the shooting is alleged to have taken place.

According to the police, Day came upon Beck as the latter was struggling with Mrs. Day. The judge struck the officer on the head with the pistol, which went off. The bullet entered Beck's head.

Beck was a well-known military aviator. Day, in addition to being a former Supreme Court justice, is also president of a building material company and is vice-president of the Continental Asphalt and Paving Company, with headquarters here.

Beck was first commissioned in the army in September, 1899. He served during the World War as a colonel of infantry. His home was originally in Texas.

90 Killed, 201 Wounded Recently in Belfast

London, April 4.—The total casualties in Belfast from Feb. 10 to March 23 were ninety killed and 201 wounded, Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill announced in the House of Commons this afternoon. Of the victims thirty-six dead and eighty-six wounded were Protestants and the remainder Catholics.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, told Commons the provisional government at Dublin was planning strict measures to prevent persons from carrying arms except in the performance of police duty.

Ninth Victim of Belfast Asassins Dies

Belfast, April 4.—Bernard McMahon died today, being the ninth victim of the massacre of the McMahon family by a band of assassins last week. The family was routed out of bed at midnight and the male members were lined up against the wall and shot, while Mrs. McMahon pleaded vainly for mercy. One son, Bernard, lingered from his wounds until today.

There was a serious incendiary fire in the business district today.

Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, in a speech in the Northern Parliament, urged all Ulsterites to comply with the peace agreement. He said that when the Irish Republican Army's activities in Ulster cease there will be peace.

Limerick Y. M. C. A. Bombed; Two Trains Raided

Donegal, April 4.—Twelve armed men today held up a passenger and freight train on the Swilly railway, took off the Londonderry newspapers and burned them. They also seized a quantity of sugar and bacon and several hampers of bread.

Mullingar, Ireland, April 4.—A freight train from Belfast to Galway was raided here by armed men, who rifled the car, burned a large amount of hay, ripped open flour bags and destroyed their contents.

Limerick, April 4. (By the Associated Press).—Two bombs shattered the windows of the Y. M. C. A. building here.

Belfast, April 4. (By the Associated Press).—Colonel Montague Bates, chief of the Southern Liaison Commission, said today orders had been given to the Sinn Feiners at Ballagh Bridge to cease firing and that these orders were being obeyed.

The desolate Sperrin Mountains, in North Tyrone, are swept nightly by large bodies of Crown forces, who are sometimes fired on by Sinn Feiners. Correspondent has been told 25 Sinn Feiners have been killed and many more wounded.

NEW RECORD MADE BY N. Y.-FLORIDA LINER

Jacksonville, Fla., April 4. — A record steamship run from New York to Jacksonville was claimed today by officers of the Clyde liner Lenape, which left New York Saturday at 10 a. m. and docked here at 11.35 a. m. yesterday, making the trip in 49 hours, 35 minutes. The old New York to Jacksonville record was 50 hours flat, made last year by the Mohawk, another Clyde boat.

Pretty Boston Girl Sees 'Shifters' as Sure Cure for Male Flirts

"I am a 'Shifter' and am not afraid to own it," says Miss Lewis. To Miss Robinson-Smith's charge that "petting parties" are the general result of "Shifter" initiations, Miss Lewis replies "punk." She insists that, if anything, the organization tends to discourage unwelcome attentions.

International Photo

CLASH ON "SHIFTERS."

Music Student Denies Organization Leads to "Petting" Parties

What is the truth about the "Shifter," that mysterious organization without head, form, rhyme or reason, which has spread like wildfire among school, high school and college students, and even to working girls?

Here's what some authorities say:

"The shifters compose a useless senseless and harmful organization. We have learned that among high school students 'petting parties' have been the general result of Shifter initiations."—Miss Gertrude Robinson-Smith, New York social worker.

"The fad makes it possible for certain commercial firms to exploit pupils by selling so-called emblems. Demands are made that under the guise of good fellowship break down moral and social barriers that ordinarily prevail among decent- well-behaved children."—William L. Ettinger, Superintendent of New York schools.

"It is a vicious thing."—Arthur A. Boyland, principal of the the George Washington High School.

"I am a 'Shifter' and am not afraid to own it. It is an innocent practical joke, and if it has any harmful effects for a normal sensible girl, I have yet to see them."—Miss Margaret Elizabeth Lewis, Boston music student.

Miss Lewis, who lives at No. 18 Queensbury street, Back Bay, waxed indignant when she learned of the charges preferred against the "Shifters" by a New Jersey bishop, New York social workers, school heads and others.

GETTING RID OF FLIRTS.

Miss Robinson-Smith declared: "The prospective member is made to believe that she is being asked to join a universal secret society to promote cordiality.

"Unfortunately this is often the case. The clip emblem serves as an invitation to flirtation, and to intimacies that self-respecting girls would ordinarily resent.

"We have learned that among high school students, 'petting parties' have been the general result of shifter initiations."

"Bunk," said Miss Lewis with much vehemence, when she read these charges.

"I suppose Miss Smith would also claim that the organization is to blame for girls smoking cigarettes, wearing short dresses and reading risque books.

"As a matter of fact, the 'shifters' have nothing to do with flirtations or 'petting' parties. If anything, the organization tends to discourage the unwelcome attentions of the affectionate youth.

"As a music student here my experience has been that the young men of most flirtatious mood, and petting party inclinations, are the very young men who most dislike to spend money. And no one can join the 'Shifters' without spending money. That's the whole idea of the organization—to 'stick' someone for something.

"Can you imagine a more sure, speedy and effectual way of getting rid of a persistent youth of the 'petting' party type than by inviting him to buy you something?

NOT "FLAPPERS."

"Miss Smith and other self-styled authorities on the subject seem to have confused the words 'Shifter' and 'Flapper.' It may be true that all flappers are shifters, but it certainly is not true that all Shifters are flappers.

"A 'Shifter' is simply a sane person with a sense of humor who has joined the organization and paid the initiation fee thereof—which ranges from a stick of gum to a house and lot.

"It is no more senseless than anything else based on humor. And as for being harmful there is no more harmless affair in the world. Joining does not give the members a chance to speak to each other without an introduction. That depends on the individual girl. Becoming a member will certainly subject her to no indignities unless she seeks them herself. And she doesn't need to join to do that."

TEST CASE IN FOREIGN DIVORCES

Mrs. Gould to Carry Fight to U. S. Supreme Court Decision Would Affect Hollis

New York, April 4.—Counsel for Mrs. Edith Kelly Gould said today they were prepared to go to the United States Supreme Court for a judicial determination of whether an American, traveling or temporarily sojourning in France, Bulgaria or some other foreign country, could divorce his American wife with the aid of foreign laws, and whether such a decree would be recognized in the United States.

Gustavus A. Rogers of Jenks & Rogers, attorneys for Mrs. Gould said this issue never had been determined by the American courts, and that a ruling of the highest court would be of widespread importance.

Besides the Gould case the issue is at stake in at least two other international divorces which recently have come to public attention—that of former Senator Henry F. Hollis in Bulgaria and Louis N. Hammerling's rabbinical decree, obtained in Austria.

In the Hollis and Hammerling cases there is the added question of the validity of subsequent marriages contracted by Hollis and Hammerling.

If the contention of Mrs. Gould's lawyers is upheld by the courts, the status of the second wives would be affected, it was said.

Frank J. Gould has not remarried since he divorced his wife in Paris and has denied rumors of an approaching match. Large sums of money are involved.

If the foreign decrees stand, the first wives will be cut off from any rights in their husband's fortunes.

Mrs. Gould is suing Frank J. Gould in the courts of New York. She has brought two actions, in the first asking for a divorce on statutory grounds, and in the second seeking to recover $160,000 for money spent by her for clothing, food, etc., between April, 1918, when she and her husband separated, and September, 1921, when she began her action.

In his answer to Mrs. Gould's divorce action, Mr. Gould has set up as a defence that he obtained a valid decree in Paris, so that she is not his wife, and, therefore, not competent to sue him for divorce, and secondly, that, even if she is still his wife in the eyes of the American courts, she is guilty of the same offence she charges against him.

In this respect, the Gould case is like the Stillman case, husband and wife accusing each other.

Almet F. Jenks, former presiding justice of the Appellate Division, who is Mr. Rogers' law partner, also appeared in the Stillman case as special counsel for James A. Stillman.

MEXICAN BOYS HURT COPYING HUMAN FLY

Mexico City, April 4.—Several boys have been injured, one fatally, while trying to emulate a "human fly" who has thrilled the crowds by scaling public buildings. Shortly after the professional climber from the United States began his exhibitions an epidemic of wall-climbing broke out among the boys. The police and firemen have responded to numerous calls to rescue lads from precarious perches.

PROCLAIM "OTTO II." AS KING OF HUNGARY

Budapest, April 4 (By Associated Press).—A legitimist proclamation declaring that "with the death of Charles, Otto the Second is King of Hungary, although temporarily prevented from coronation," has been issued, signed by nineteen aristocrats, headed by Count Albert Apponyi. Cardinal Czernoch, primate of Hungary, said today that in his opinion Otto had become king.

GIRL TELLS HOW KIDNAPERS SEIZED HER

4 Men Are Accused in Court at Cambridge by 17-Year-Old Natick Belle

Seventeen-year-old Dora Onorato, belle of the Italian colony at Natick, was again the central figure in Superior Criminal Court in Cambridge today when the trial of four Natick Italians, John Santillo, Francisco Pignatello, Nicola Vitale and Mike Troia, on charges of kidnaping, was resumed before Judge John F. Brown.

Under cross-examination the girl told of ardent courtship by Troia in the years immediately preceding her coming to this country, and just afterwards.

Troia, she testified, came from the same little Italian town and before she came to the United States he had written her many letters telling of life here and begging her to marry him.

SEIZED BY MEN.

She had refused all these proposals, she declared, but admitted his letters had much to do with her own and her father's decision to come to America. She made the voyage across the Atlantic in company with her own father and with Troia's mother, who died on the voyage.

On her arrival in America, the first place she stayed was the house in Natick that also sheltered Troia, and there he renewed his protestations of love and again urged her and her father to consent to marriage, she testified.

Then the story came down to January 20, last, when, according to her testimony, she was seized as she was on her way home from the factory where she worked, hustled into a waiting auto and driven out into the frozen woods near Framingham.

"One of the four men held me tight, his hand over my mouth so I could not cry out," she testified.

GAGGED AND BOUND.

"Another of the men sat on my lap, hiding me from any one who might come along," she added.

When the car stopped, a gag was placed in her mouth, her arms bound behind her and she was dragged through the woods up a bridle path, she stated. For a time the kidnapers, she said, left her lying on the snow while they went to a nearby camp and lighted a fire.

It was there, she alleged, Troia attempted to attack her.

Her rescue was due to a passing physician, who saw her being dragged through the woods, and, thinking her captors a band of thieves, notified the Framingham police.

COURT BELIEVES SALTONSTALL CAN ACT

Justice Jenney in Supreme Court today dismissed a petition of Edmund D. Codman for a writ of mandamus directing the Superior Court to reopen indictments found in 1914 against F. S. Moseley & Co., stock brokers, Charles S. Mellen, and the board of investigators of the East Cambridge Savings Bank, in relation to the financial condition of the Hampden Railroad Company.

The cases were nol prossed by former District Attorney William J. Corcoran three days before he went out of office.

In his petition Codman alleged that the present district attorney, Endicott P. Saltonstall, from his family relations and other considerations, was disqualified to acting impartially and fairly, and asked that the cases be prosecuted by the attorney-general.

The court found that District Attorney Saltonstall was qualified to act, and that Codman had not exhausted his remedies in the Superior Court.

THUMB SCREWS AND RODS.

Two brass rods, 12 inches long, about 3-16 inches in diameter, threaded, and fitted with a thumb screw at either end.

Two pieces of wood, about 10 inches square and about an inch thick.

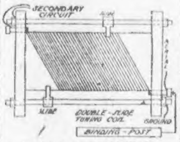
A cardboard cylinder, from 6 to 8 inches in diameter. An old Quaker Oats or salt box will do.

Two slides, costing 5 or 10 cents.

TUNE TO WAVE LENGTH.

A few words first about the action of the coil. The antenna circuit and the detector circuit must both be tuned to the length of the wave which it is desired to receive.

This is accomplished by increasing or decreasing the amount of wire in either of the circuits. Increasing the amount increases capacity of the circuit so that it is tuned to a longer wave, and decreasing the amount of wire decreases the capacity of the circuit so that it is tuned to a shorter wave.



TUNING COIL DIAGRAM.

In the above diagramatic reproduction of a double slide tuning coil, trace with the point of a pencil the flow of the current from the aerial to the ground.

Note that the current flows through the binding post, around and around the coil until it comes to the point of the lower slide, then through the slide, along the brass rod, and thence out to the ground.

By moving the slide toward the aerial binding post, you will notice that the current will have a shorter distance to flow. This will lower the capacity of the circuit and permit it to receive shorter waves, as explained above.

When the current flows as I have explained, it sets up what is called a secondary current by means of self-inductance.

SEPARATE CURRENT.

You do not need to worry about inductance, except to know that it is the cause of the flow of an altogether separate, but similar, secondary current.

When the secondary circuit is "closed," that is when there is a complete path for the current, the "juice" flows in at the binding post marked "Secondary Circuit," through as many of the turns of wire as are marked off by the top slide, through the upper brass rod, and out.

Just as the aerial, or primary circuit, is tuned by the lower slide, so the secondary circuit is tuned by the upper slide. Do not expect that these slides must be in relatively the same position. The aerial itself has capacity, so that fewer turns of wire on the coil will be necessary to tune it to a certain wave length, as will be necessary to tune the secondary circuit.

FOLLOW DIAGRAM.

For the construction of the coil, follow the diagram. There should be about eight turns of wire on the coil. The turns of wire must not touch each other.

The slides should make a close contact with the wires, and should be tightly enough fixed to the rods so that no current is lost there. The cardboard cylinder may be glued to the wood ends, and the brass rods will hold it in place if there are sufficiently tightened.

SOMERVILLE TO OBSERVE ITS 50TH ANNIVERSARY

A three-day celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the City of Somerville, from July 2 to July 4, inclusive, was advocated by one hundred men and women who gathered at the Somerville City Hall on invitation of Mayor Webster for an informal discussion of a program for the anniversary.

Mayor Webster and former Mayors Charles W. Eldridge and Z. E. Cliff were appointed to select a citizens' celebration committee to co-operate with the committee of the Board of Aldermen.

The meeting voted in favor of beginning the celebration with special services in the churches on Sunday, July 2.

SENTENCED TO 60 DAYS FOR MAKING MOONSHINE

William Abeloff, found guilty in the Federal Court of manufacturing moonshine at Randolph, was sentenced by Judge Morris today to 60 days in the House of Correction.

Julius Napoleon of Chelsea was fined $100 for selling two ounces of moonshine whiskey.

Charged with manufacturing 25 gallons of liquor in a house on Mt. Pleasant street, Roxbury, Morris Cohen of Arlington street, Chelsea, and Sperio Prasinos, who owns the house, were held in [illegible] each by United States Commissioner Hayes today.

Question Box for Radioites

Q.—Please explain if there is any difference between a vacuum tube circuit that oscillates and one that is regenerative? Which of these two circuits is best for 150 to 700 meters regeneration and why?—A. C. G., Medford.

A.—The circuit will not oscillate unless there is regeneration in the circuit. Circuit No. 2 is better because the volume of signal strength depends on the voltage impressed on the grid, and by using variometer in grid circuit a greater voltage will be set up across the varometer than would be set up across the condenser on No. 1 circuit. You can dispense with the condenser because it will cause a decrease in signal strength, and there is no use for variometer with condenser.

Q.—I am going to build my own set for receiving. Will you give me what is required to build on that would receive about 800 miles.—V. P., New London, Ct.

A.—Watch this column for a description of an easily built audion set. Of course the distance at which you can hear radiophone concerts depends as much on the transmitting station as on the receiving station.

Q.—My radio set, consisting of loose coupler, fixed condenser, and crystal detector, receives phone messages from Medford when I am using about one-fourth of the wire on my primary and two-thirds on my secondary. The messages are very weak, however. What must I do to get better results?

2—Give the size of tubes, as well as wire necessary to make a rotary coupler, to be used in connection with a crystal detector which will receive WGI, WBZ, KDKA and other broadcasting stations?

3—What coils will I need to step the above set (No. 2), to receive wave lengths from 10,000 to 15,000? It is understood that I will use a bulb detector.—J. B., Salem.

A.—1—You can't expect strong signals with a crystal detector at your distance from transmitting station.

2—No. 26 wire is a good size for coils. Your dealer will explain the size of tubes necessary.

3—Set using vario-coupler or variometer may be adjusted to use longer wave lengths by inserting in series in both primary and secondary circuits coils of concentrated inductance. A means of regeneration must be provided in plate circuit. I cannot give size of coils unless the size of your present coils is given.

Q.—Why cannot I hear Medford with the following set:

A Murdock two-slide tuning coil, a pair of 2,200 ohm receivers, a condenser, and about 150 feet of No. 14 aerial?—A. W. B., Jamaica Plain.

A.—It is impossible to say without seeing your hook-up. Properly hooked up, you should have no difficulty in hearing Medford with such a set. See the diagram in Monday's paper.

Q.—Can you get me the talk on "Sidelights in Radio Communication," by Professor E. S. Dallenbaugh, or let me know where I can get it?—H. C., Revere.

A.—Write to Professor Dallenbaugh, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge.

FORMER COURT OFFICER LOSES APPEAL FOR WAGES

Daniel Thompson, dropped as a Suffolk County court officer, after he had been accused of accepting a bribe of $200 to "fix" a jury, today appeared before the legislative committee on counties and asked that he be given $621, three months pay which he claimed had been withheld from him. He said he had resigned because he received an intimation that he would never be reinstated. He denied he had been discharged. The committee voted against his petition.

CALL RICKARD IN BLACKMAIL INQUIRY

Asked to Prove Charges Made Against Agents of Children's Society

By Associated Press.

New York, April 4.—George L. (Tex) Rickard, sports promoter, who several days ago was acquitted of a charge of having attacked a fifteen-year-old girl today was summoned to the district attorney's office to give further information in connection with his declaration that agents of the children's society had attempted to blackmail him.

William Fields, said to have been employed by Rickard at an apartment he maintained in West Forty-seventh street, also was sought for examination by the district attorney.

Several persons were questioned at the district attorney's office in an effort to obtain corroborative evidence in support of Rickard's charges.

Assistant District Attorney Pecora said that he had not carried the investigation far enough to determine whether the case should be presented to the grand jury.

One of the witnesses examined was Charles E. Griffin, proprietor of a saloon where Rickard said the agents attempted to blackmail him.

WOOLEN COMPANY AGENT HELD IN $6,000 THEFT

Clinton, April 4.—James Hall, agent for the New England Woolen Company, was arrested today on a warrant sworn out by David V. Carruth, an official of the company, charging him with the larceny of $6,000 worth of woolen waste and yarn. He was held in $8,500 bail for a hearing tomorrow.

March 27 Hall, who had been employed by the company three months, was arrested for the alleged theft of $100 worth of waste. He was released under $400 bonds for a later hearing. In the meantime officials of the company have been investigating the alleged sale of 30,000 pounds of waste to Worcester junk dealers. Today's arrest was the result.

HOLD HUSBAND OF GIRL DEAD ON BEACH

Warrant Charging Murder Issued in Chesapeake Bay Mystery

Baltimore, April 4.—Edward T. Mercer, husband of Mrs. Ruth Mercer, whose disfigured body was found Sunday in the waters of Chesapeake Bay at Ocean View, a Summer resort near Norfolk, Va., was arrested here early today and is being held at police headquarters for the Ocean View authorities. A warrant charging him with the murder of his wife has been sworn out.

Mercer was arrested at the Buddie Club, opposite City Hall, where police found him in bed. He said he had been in Baltimore "a couple of days." He tried yesterday to enlist here in the coast guard service.

Lieutenant Carey at police headquarters read to Mercer a telegram from Ocean View asking for his detention. Mercer wept. The accused gave his age as twenty-one years.

How to Acquire
A Clear Radiant Complexion In 14 Days

IT seems almost impossible that pimples, blackheads, boils, etc., can be made to completely disappear within as short a time as 14 days.

Yet thousands of IRONIZED YEAST users have proved to their complete satisfaction that it is not only easy to quickly acquire a clear, fresh complexion—but at the same time to build up weight, energy and general health to really an astonishing degree.

Free
Mail coupon below for the amazing Three-Day FREE Trial Treatment of IRONIZED YEAST. Take these pleasant-tasting tablets—two with each meal. Then watch the results!

Surprisingly Quick Results
The reason IRONIZED YEAST brings such remarkable results is because it embodies a new scientific process which enables yeast to bring its great benefits often in just half the usual time. Experiments prove that while yeast alone is good, it is not enough, in itself, to bring 100 per cent results. For while yeast contains certain vital elements which are essential to health, it is found that some other agent is needed to help convert these wonderful elements into health, strength and energy.

The New Process
Everyone knows that iron is of great value in converting our food into living cells and tissue. So working on this problem, our scientists finally discovered the remarkable process of ironization—the process which enables you to derive from yeast all of the splendid benefits it holds for you.

Do not think, however, that any combination of yeast and iron will do. Yeast brings its best and quickest results only when it is treated through the process of ironization. And this process is embodied only in IRONIZED YEAST, the one scientifically correct yeast treatment.

Results Guaranteed—or Money Back
If you are troubled with humiliating skin blemishes—if you are thin—or if you feel the need of more energy, you owe it to yourself to learn of the benefits IRONIZED YEAST holds for you.

IRONIZED YEAST is sold at all druggists on a positive guarantee of satisfactory results from the first package, or your money instantly refunded. Thus, you run no risk whatever. Get IRONIZED YEAST from your druggist today!

IRONIZED YEAST Tablets
THE ONLY YEAST THAT IS GENUINELY IRONIZED

WARNING—IRONIZED YEAST is entirely different from anything on the market. Do not confuse it with ordinary "vitamine tablets," which in most cases are merely plain, inefficient mixtures of yeast and iron. IRONIZED YEAST is the only yeast which is treated through the remarkable process of ironization—the process which enables yeast to bring its splendid results just twice as quickly. Insist upon it always—for nothing else can be like it. Go to your druggist and get IRONIZED YEAST today. $1.00 a package.

Fresh From Paris

Paris, France.

A ZIMMERMAN tailleur that emphasizes several points of the late mode is of powder blue kasha cloth. The coat, with its smart loose waistline inclined to shortness rather than length, is trimmed with tiny swirls of narrow silk braid in self-color. The bell sleeves offer a touch of originality in the one-pleat effect introduced over the forearm. Powder blue satin makes the blouse that is finished with a fringed, embroidered kasha cloth girdle.

A COAT, also from Zimmerman, has all the slender suppleness of the Spring frock to recommend it. Of dark blue twill, its deep bodice is lavish with Rumanian embroidery in bright red and gray, and the gathered skirt is left perfectly plain in contrast. Small silver buttons effect a snug fastening at the throat and a pleasing decoration on the sleeves.

N. Y. RAFFLES IS HUNTED IN BOSTON

Heads Robber Band That Has Looted Many Homes of Rich, Police Believe

New England police officials were asked today to search for a Raffles, who, with true Parisian Apache cunning, is believed to have robbed a score of rich residences here and in adjoining States.

The man is said by the New York officials, who have asked the aid of Boston and other New England cities, to be a former butler, and the brains of a crafty and daring band of housebreakers.

His last and most sensational feat was the robbery of the palatial home of Albert R. Shattuck, a retired banker, in the exclusive Washington square district of New York, where the band escaped with $60,000 worth of jewelry after tying up the banker, his wife and eight servants, and locking them in an airtight, soundproof wine vault.

ONE OF BAND HELD

In the dark of the vault the banker managed to wriggle free from his bonds and with the aid of a tiny pocket knife and a dime, which the robbers had overlooked in searching him, unscrewed the bolts of the door and permitted the imprisoned crowd to escape.

One of the robber band was arrested. He stated he was Eugenio Diset, a French sailor, who was said by the New York police to have admitted he had gone to New York from Connecticut, where he had just completed a term in prison for carrying a loaded revolver.

According to Diset's story, he had been persuaded to join the robber band by a mysterious Frenchman he knew only as Henri, and whom he had met in Madison square, New York. The police believe this was the ex-butler and brains of the gang.

LENOX HOUSE LOOTED.

The first indication the New York officials had of the New England activities of the band came when Major Osborne Field of Fifth avenue called at the New York police headquarters with a detailed report of the robbery of the Summer home of his father-in-law at Lenox, which had been robbed by a French butler, who never has been apprehended.

Later the Field home at Stockbridge was entered and looted. The alleged robber was arrested in Springfield. He turned out to be a negro, who called himself Solomon Johnson. He admitted his crime and said he was on his way to New York.

When apprehended, Johnson was on probation from the Eastern State Penitentiary in Pennsylvania and is now in the House of Correction at Pittsfield, awaiting trial before the Superior Court in July.

The police admitted today that in all probability he will be questioned in an effort to link him up with the activities of the Frenchmen's band.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED ON PICKPOCKET CHARGE

Miss Mary Gentile, twenty-four years old, giving her address as Leverett street, was arrested at Washington and Winter streets as a pickpocket. With her when she was caught was a fifteen-year-old girl. The accused was arrested after a woman in the crowd at the corner charged that she had attempted to extract her purse from her pocket.

OILER PREVENTS DESTRUCTION OF MONGOLIA

Plunges Into Smoke-Filled Hold With Torch and Burns Hole in Liner's Side

By Associated Press.

Hoboken, N. J., April 4. — The former United States army transport Mongolia, doughty veteran of many adventures, escaped destruction by fire at a drydock today through the strenuous efforts of firemen assisted materially by Tom Waldron of Jersey City, an oiler.

When the blaze was discovered in the engine room, Waldron placed a wet towel around his head, grabbed an acetylene torch, plunged through clouds of smoke, and burned a hole in a steel bulkhead through which tons of water were poured.

The prompt flooding of the engine room undoubtedly prevented the flames from spreading to the great tanks containing thousands of gallons of oil.

Officials of the steamship line which has been repairing the Mongolia preparatory to entering her as a passenger and freight ship estimated that the damage would be between $10,000 and $20,000.

Says a Lot of Girls Would Be Glad to Mary American Men, Only They Think It's Too Common

The first thing some society girls do when they get a little money is to go over to Europe and marry a title. The average woman is very domestic, but she wants her husband imported.

A girl thinks that by marrying a man of the nobility that the King will recognize her. The chances are the King wouldn't know her if he saw her.

A girl likes to marry a Duke or an Earl because they can take her to court. The only time a man takes his wife to court over here is when he wants to get rid of her.

A woman can be presented at court by marrying a Lord. But break your neighbor's window and you'll get there just as quick.

One dame married a Count and brought him all the way over here from London. You could take one look at him and tell that he was far fetched.

Just because a girl is an American beauty that's no reason she has to be planted in a cozy hot-house.

A girl may love a Prince for all she's worth and he loves her for the same reason.

One Prince lost a fortune in ten minutes last month. She went home to her father.

All foreigners don't marry for money, they just marry where money is.

Money carries germs, but these fellows are willing to be fumigated.

Our dollars talk and they soon teach them to speak with an accent.

Many a dollar which was working hard in an American clearing house is now taking it easy in an English bank.

Our money must like it over there; it doesn't seem to want to come back.

A lot of girls would be glad to marry Americans only they think it's too common.

BEVERLY GIRL'S SUIT FOR HEART BALM SETTLED

Telephone Supervisor Who Demanded $25,000 Satisfied by Agreement Out of Court

Beverly, April 4 — Miss Nora C. Terry's $25,000 heart balm suit against Harold M. Perkins, prominent Salem business man, has been settled out of court. Miss Terry, supervisor of the Beverly phone exchange, sued the wealthy and recently married Salem man for breach of promise.

The suit was filed at Salem last January, shortly after Perkins had married Miss Costello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Costello of Hamilton.

Miss Terry claimed that two nights before his marriage Perkins called on her and made fervent love. She learned of his marriage to Miss Costello a week later, through Perkins' mother.

No details of the amount of the settlement could be learned. The court docket entry reads: "Judgment for plaintiff for $1 without costs, and judgment satisfied."

HOW TO KEEP WHITE CLOTHES FROM TURNING GREY

Haven't you often wondered why your white clothes sometimes have a dingy, grey look?

Almost always it is because you haven't rinsed them thoroughly—and it is next to impossible to rinse clothes clean if you don't use the right kind of soap.

Soaps that do not dissolve completely leave little sticky, greyish particles on the clothes. You just can't rinse these off.

A soap like Rinso dissolves completely. When you soak your clothes in Rinso suds there are no little bits of undissolved soap fat to hold the dirt. You can rinse out all the dirty, sudsy water.

Then, too, with Rinso there is no hard rubbing. It soaks out all but the most ground-in dirt.

Use Rinso and your clothes will always be snowy white—without that grey look that makes you ashamed to hang them out.

We guarantee any reasonable alteration in time for Palm Sunday, on garments bought not later than Thursday

TELLS WHY SHE DIDN'T MARRY MILLIONAIRE

Mary Landon Baker Says She Collapsed Under Strain of Fitting on Wedding Gowns

By PATRICIA DAUGHERTY.
(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service. Copyright, 1922, by Chicago Evening American.)

On board the California Limited enroute to Chicago, April 4.—Secret telling time when the lights are out and your mother has called "the fourth and last time" to "stop your chattering and go to sleep."

Do you remember—of course you do, if you ever were a little girl and had secrets. Mary Landon Baker, despite all that has been said and written, is just a little girl, and everyone will admit she has had secrets.

Miss Baker, it will be remembered, left Allister McCormick, son of a Chicago millionaire, "waiting at the church" on the afternoon they were to be wed. And now she has told me why.

"Thursday night, before the wedding, there was a party for Allister and me at the Casino Club," she said, "and I just adore dancing so we stayed up pretty late. Then Friday night, I had a dinner party. I was awfully tired Saturday, but I got up because the dressmaker wanted to try on my dresses.

"I slept all day Sunday, I was so tired and nervous. Allister came over and when he saw I was ill, he insisted on postponing the ceremony. I wouldn't think of it, but the next morning I was so weak that I couldn't get up.

"Allister telephoned and again insisted we postpone the ceremony or have it read in my house.

"Nothing doing, I said. "I'm going to be married in church at 4 o'clock. But at 3:30 as I went from my bedroom to the drawing room to have my wedding picture made, I collapsed, wedding gown, veil, flowers and all.

"I collapsed from the strain of fitting on clothes, and going to parties all season, and that is the only reason I didn't marry Allister on Jan. 2."

BOOM SOMERVILLE MAN FOR G. A. R. COMMANDER

Representative John M. Woods of Somerville, former State Senator and former Mayor of Somerville and a veteran of the Civil War, is prominently mentioned as a candidate for the office of commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. at the coming convention of the organization to be held at Des Moines, Ia., in September. Representative Woods is the oldest member of the Massachusetts House. During 1914 and 1915 he served as commander of the Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R. He is a past commander of Willard C. Kingsley Post, 139, of Somerville.

BORAH SCORES COAL OPERATORS IN SENATE

Washington, April 4.—The coal operators were criticised in the Senate today by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, chairmon of the Senate labor committee, who charged that by refusing to confer with the miners they had broken a "solemn obligation" in the contract which expired March 31. He declared the public would have to take "drastic measures" to protect itself.

"The mine owners owed it to the public," he said, "to use their utmost efforts to bring about a conference and an understanding. If the miners had refused, then the criticism would have been upon them."

LEOPOLD MORSE GIVEN FIRE UNIFORM CONTRACT

The contract for furnishing uniforms for the fire department was today awarded to the Leopold Morse Company by Mayor Curley at $13,600. The uniforms will replace the present worn-out ones and for the new members just starting into the service. They will cost $24.70 each both for officers and privates.

BOMB IN BUDAPEST KILLS 3, WOUNDS 30

Vienna, April 4 (By the Associated Press).—A concealed bomb exploded at a business men's banquet in Budapest last night, killing three and injuring thirty prominent persons, it was learned here today.

HECKLER IS PUT OUT AT SERVICE IN ST. PAUL'S

Interrupts Sermon of Preacher Bell by Quoting From Scriptures

There was a flurry of excitement in St. Paul's Cathedral at noon today when an objector in the audience stood up and answered some remarks of the preacher at the top of his voice, saying: "Judge not and ye shall not be judged."

The preacher was the Rev. Dr. B. I. Bell, president of St. Stephen's College, Annandale, N. Y., who was telling a large audience that Boston and other large communities were still worshipping heathen gods.

"These gods are Mammon, Moloch and the goddess Astarte," said the preacher. "You will find people well dressed and well groomed who are not worshipping the true god, but Mammon—the god of wealth, Moloch—the god of force, Astarte—the goddess of sensuality.

"Many hide their respectability in making others believe they are real Christians."

It was at this utterance that the objector in the back seat fired his scriptural text at the preacher. He was led by the usher into the fresh air of Tremont street and the service went on without any other incident.

The preacher found the goddess Astarte right here in good soceity, in jazz music, in highly colored magazine stories sold right near the cathedral.

"This is not the weakness of youth, but it is found among those who cannot claim any longer the bloom of youth," he added. "Don't think for one moment that these gods mentioned in Isaiah are not worshipped in Boston and other large communities. Look and you will see this for yourselves."

HARDING STATEMENT ON SHAKEUP EXPECTED

Washington, April 4.—The recent dismissal of more than thirty officials of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing by President Harding involved no desire "to reflect upon the character of any government employe," it was said today by Secretary Christian.

In a letter to John J. Devinney, one of the dismissed executives, Mr. Christian declared the President regretted that "insinuating publicity" had attended the dismissal order and indicated that a statement broadly covering the whole incident might be made later at the White House.

HOOVER WOULD CLEAN CONSTRUCTION TRADE

Chicago, April 4.—The practices of a small minority in the construction [illegible] are unendurable and must be cleaned up if business and commerce desires protection "from the steady invasion of regulatory hands of the government," said Secretary Hoover today in an address before the National Federation of Construction Industries. "Great indirect wastes beyond the control of any individual or concern must be eliminated by concerted action" he said. "To accomplish these ends there is needed a cleaner organization of the trades, not the destruction of the trades organizations."

BOSTON PIANO FIRM IN 3-SIDED MERGER

Norwalk, April 4.—The A. B. Chase Piano Company of Norwalk has been consolidated with the Emerson Piano Company of Boston and the Lindeman & Sons Company of New York in a million-dollar concern, incorporated under the laws of New York, to be known as the United Piano Company, it is announced here.

PHONE CALL BRINGS TUG TO AID OF COAL BARGE

The steamship Brandon arrived off the Graves Light today with her steering gear deranged. She signaled to the lightkeeper, who telephoned to the city and had a tug sent down to asist the steamer into port. She is laden with coal for the New England Fuel and Transportation Company's plant at Everett.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Army and Navy Club Opens Bazaar of Seasons Today

Mrs. A. Cecil Butler of No. 154 Riverway, one of the many society women who find tennis an exciting game. This photo of Mrs. Butler was taken at a recent tournament

MRS. A. CECIL BUTLER

By BETTY ALDEN.

AFFAIRS given by the Army and Navy Club never fail to enlist the co-operation of many members of the smart set. Which means that a number of persons of prominence in the social world are working zealously for the success of the Bazaar of the Seasons, being held today and tomorrow at the Army and Navy clubhouse, No. 10 Park square.

The January table is to be a surprise, with Mrs. Henry A. Wylie, wife of Commandant Wylie of the Charlestown navy yard, in charge. February is to be a Valentine tea table in charge of Miss Andrea Parker; the March table has been devoted to all manner of toothsome sweets, to be sold under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Leland; April has been chosen for the display of household and kitchen goods; Mrs. Barrett Wendell presides over the May table, where the daintiest of fancy and linen articles may be purchased; the June table has been given over to the sale of flowers, and a colorful display of blooms is promised for the occasion.

Then, for the remainder of the "year" comes the July table, transformed into a bake-shop; the August table, with Mrs. Thomas C. Thacher in charge, where soft and cunning baby things may be found; handkerchiefs and neckwear are to be sold by Mrs. George Wheelwright and Mrs. William Sturgis Lothrop at the September booth; the October table has been devoted to the sale of preserves and table decorations; November is to be the "bargain counter," and December's table is laden with a novel assortment of toys for the kiddies.

This afternoon there is to be a bridge at 2:30 o'clock, while tomorrow afternoon there will be a tea dansant under the direction of Miss Andre Parker. There are few people indeed, for whom a military band hath no charms, and we expect that everyone will be interested to learn that both today and tomorrow, from 3 until 6, the army and navy bands will play during the progress of the sale, which, by the way, is being given by the Lest-We-Forget Committee of the Army and Navy Club. It is through the courtesy of General Marks L. Hersey of the First Corps Area, and Admiral Henry A. Wylie, that the army and navy bands have been secured for the occasion.

I hear that Mrs. William A. Gaston of Bay State road, the chairman of the committee in charge of the bazaar, is to sail for Europe on the fifteenth of this month, on board the S. S. Homeric, to join her daughter, Miss Hope Gaston, who has been abroad for about six weeks. Mrs. Gaston and her daughter, who made her debut two years ago, I believe, will spend the major portion of their time abroad travelling in Italy and France, planning to return home on the fifteenth of June. The Gastons have a Summer home known as "Killingly Farm," at Barre, Mass., and another Summer estate, "Cross Trees," at North Haven, Me.

Mrs. Gaston, who has done some splendid work as a member of the "Lest-We-Forget" committee, has as her helpers for the bazaar today and tomorrow Mesdames George W. Wheelwright, Jr., Charles Francis Adams, 2d, Clarence R. Edwards, Thomas C. Thacher, John Balch, Henry Brooks, James Cunningham Gray, William S. Lothrop, Richard M. Saltonstall, Barrett Wendell and Henry A. Wylie.

A most distinguished host of matrons are on the patroness list for the second in the series of morning concerts in aid of the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children to be given in the Copley-Plaza this morning.

Among those sponsoring the affair are Mesdames Charles Francis Adams, William H. Ames, Charles S. Tuckerman, Ezra Ripley Thayer, Charles W. Taintor, Walter I. Badger, Frank Cabot Paine, George W. Wheelwright, Homer F. Livermore, Ronald T. Lyman, James C. Bayley, Charles G. Mixter, Frank W. Stearns, Edward Clark Streeter, G. Howland Shaw, Endicott Peabody, Harold Ernest, Henry C. Everett, B. H. Bristow Draper, Carl F. Kaufman, Eliot Hubbard, Frederick C. Houghton and Robert Jordan.

Random Notes of Society Folk in Town and Country

POWELL CABOT, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Cabot of Chestnut Hill, was among the guests whom Joseph Clark Baldwin, 3d, of New York entertained over the week-end at the Baldwin estate, "Shallow Brook Farm," at Mount Kisco. Mr. Cabot is a member of the '18 and Mr. Baldwin of the '20 class at Harvard. Other members of the house-party were Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Redmond, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Simpkins, Robert Payne, D. M. Thorne, Norman Stewart Walker and John Lawrence.

A novel charity affair will be given by society folk in New York the middle of next month, when a section of Park avenue, one of Gotham's exclusive streets, will be transformed into the scene of a country fair in aid of the Association of Crippled Children. In addition there will be a circus, a merry-go-round and an open air theatre, the latter to be managed by Mrs. Lydig Hoyt. Francis B. Hoffman, Jr., is the architect for the affair, in which Mrs. Lyttleton Fox and Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer, as well as a host of other fashionable folk are interested.

John Duncan, who is attending Harvard College, has been paying a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan, at the Carlton House, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ahl of Boston were among the many prominent society folk on the Breakers Beach at Palm Beach, where they have been the entire season.

Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater of Boston, who has been spending the past season in New York, was one of the patronesses for the large concert given by Serge Rachmaninoff, the Russian pianist and composer, at Carnegie Hall, New York, in aid of Russian musicians, artists and men of letters. $5,000 resulted from the concert, all of which will be turned over to the American Relief Administration for distribution in Russia, as Mr. Rachmaninoff himself defrayed all the expenses of the concert.

WALPOLE MOTHER OF 8 MISSIN^ FOR SIX DAYS

The Boston American was today asked to aid in the search for Mrs. Willard Wilbur of Walpole, who left her home last Thursday morning. Her husband is left alone with eight children. She is described as being about five feet, two inches in height and weighing about 140 pounds. She was dressed when last seen in a light brown coat, a blue feather turban, black stockings and brown orfords. She has dark brown hair, and is forty-three years old.

PHILLIPS BROOKS HOUSE ASSOCIATION TO DINE

In the trophy room of the Harvard Union the annual meeting and dinner of the Phillips Brooks House Association will be held at 6:15 tomorrow evening. John Farwell Moors, a Fellow of Harvard University, will give a short address on public service being the guest of honor. The annual reports of the different committees will be read and offered for acceptance at this meeting.

LASKER PLEADS FOR HARDING'S SUBSIDY PLAN

Tells Congressmen Present Loss to Government Is Over $50,000,000 a Year

Washington, April 4 (By International News Service).—In addition to rolling up an annual deficit of $50,000,000, government operation of the American merchant marine is defeating its own purposes by "driving from the seas" the private operators, who should eventually become the owners of the government's vessels, A. D. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, today told a joint congressional committee in urging adoption of President Harding's ship subsidy plan.

"Fifty million dollars annually it is costing the government to keep the Shipping Board going," Lasker declared. "And it is a deception to the American people to represent that the Shipping Board is losing but $50,000,000 annually when that fifty millions is lost in operation only and does not consider capital invested."

House Republican Leader Mondell said the legislation probably would pass the House this session, but there was not much chance of getting it through the Senate.

NAVAL BOARD ACQUITS WAR COLLEGE OFFICER

Lieutenant-Commander Norman Van der Veer, U. S. N., instructor at the Naval War College, Newport, R. I., was acquitted today by a naval trial board of which Rear Admiral Henry A. Wiley was chairman, of a charge of having been drunk at his Newport quarters on New Year's Day. Complaint was made and Secretary Denby ordered a trial by board of inquiry. The finding of the court was unanimous.

WANTS EDUCATIONAL INQUIRY BY STATE

With other institutions of learning crowded, the Massachusetts State Normal schools were alone able to accomodate the students who applied for education at the beginning of the school year, Judge Michael M. Sullivan today declared to the legislative committee on ways and means. He urged appointment of a special commission to investigate the educational facilities and to inquire to what extent willing pupils are being deprived of opportunities.

NURSE ACCUSED AT TRIAL BY DETECTIVES

Miss Stone Introduced Man as Her Husband, Says One Witness

New York, April 4.—Escorted to court today by two police matrons instead of one, Miss Olivia M. P. Stone, graduate nurse, heard additional witnesses testify concerning her attitude toward Ellis G. Kinkead, former corporation counsel of Cincinnati, whom she is charged with having murdered in Brooklyn.

The defendant appeared calmer than she did yesterday, when she collapsed for the second time since her trial started, but she kept mumbling to herself.

A special guard was placed over her during the night, when she neither slept nor ate, appearing restless after discussing the day's events with her cellmate, Mrs. Lillian Raizen.

Harry Abrams, Assistant United States Attorney in Cincinnati, testified that Miss Stone had told him she was through with Kinkead, did not wish to marry him, and wanted to see him jailed.

Abrams said he had met Miss Stone in May, 1919, near a shoe store in Cincinnati, and that she told him she was glad she had not committed suicide, and wanted to "get" Kinkead, if it was the last thing she did.

Matthew T. Hagen, a Nashville letter carrier, testified that in 1906 Miss Stone had given him as a forwarding address the number of a house which the prosecution contends had a bad reputation.

Saury testified that in 1906 Miss Stone had introduced him to a man named Selry, who, she said, was her husband.

Detectives Schwakle and Ellenridder of Cincinnati testified Miss Stone had given indications of insanity in 1921, a few days before the shooting, when she telephoned them to meet her in the Emory Hotel in Cincinnati. She told them she had heard that Kinkead was in Brooklyn and that if she found him living with Marie Louise Gormley, widow of the deceased, she would "get" him.

The detectives said she had told them Charles K. Williams, a Cincinnati lawyer and friend of Kinkead's, had driven her out of the nursing profession and was trying to get her into an asylum.

FOUR-ALARM FIRE IN CAMBRIDGE FACTORY

Thousands of persons were attracted to the Charles River waterfront of East Cambridge by a fire in the heart of the factory district. Four alarms were sounded.

The fire was in the boiler shop and sheds of the Johnson Marble Works on First street. Sparks were showered on nearby buildings, some of them falling in the yard of the House of Correction some distance away.

The fire was confined to the marble works' sheds. The damage was estimated at $20,000.

FALL RIVER GIRL SWALLOWS POISON

Fall River, April 4.—Cordelia Carpenter, twenty-four years old, a weaver, employed at the American Printing Company's plant, made an attempt to end her life by taking bichloride of mercury tablets. She is reported to be dying.

The girl took the poison while at work in one of the departments, creating great excitement in the plant. Miss Carpenter told a policeman that trouble with her father and mother led her to seek death.

MALDEN MAYOR SCORES SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Mayor John V. Kimball of Malden, commenting on the Malden School Committee's vote to abolish the present signal given to notify the public when there will be no school session, denounced the committee as "pig-headed and children."

Farnsworth G. Marshall, superintendent of school, "was responsible for the action taken," declared the Mayor.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN

By ALFRED STEPHEN BRYAN

The Salt of Style

New York, April 4—Those who borrow from abroad their expressions, both linguistic and facial, are fond of terming the double breasted jacket a reefer. This name is derived from seafaring men, reefers of sails, who were the first to adopt the double-breasted coat as a sort of badge of their calling. Even today all sailors, skippers and yachtsmen wear it, possibly for its greater warmth and snugness.

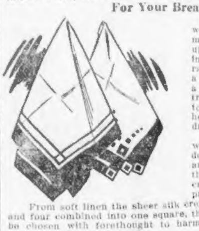
It is a common misbelief that the double-breasted jacket is only suited to certain figures. If it be well cut and well fitting, with a properly gauged waistline, any man, unless far below normal stature, can wear this garment becomingly. Just as slender body lines can be put into the double-breasted jacket as into the single-breasted affair.

Of course, if the d. b. jacket has a lengthwise pattern, say, hairline or chalkline or pencil stripes, the impression of height is more sharply stressed than in plain-colored woolens.

The jacket, illustrated here, is a spruce Springtime fashion model, showing two buttons; the long, rolled, overlapping lapel; the wide, low-notch collar and the angular lapel corners.

This garment curves moderately to the waistline and is kept trim and close over the hips. The waistcoat is cut to reveal one button above the jacket opening. Pockets are flapped; sleeves are of fairish width; front buttons are farther apart than heretofore.

For Your Breast Pocket



Fashion is so generous to women and so parsimonious to men. It allows a woman play upon every note of color, so that, in comparison, she can make a rainbow, a Mandarin's coat and a stained-glass window fade into a black-and-white sketch. Contrariwise, a man's opportunities to express his color sense are held down to the incidentals of dress.

Taking the handkerchief, than which no article can be more downright practical, the weavers and designers have given it all the colorful character of a man's cravat, making it just as expressive of taste and personality.

From soft linen the sheer silk crepe; from a single color to three and four combined into one square, the handkerchief of today should be chosen with forethought to harmonize or contrast possessingly with suit, shirt and scarf.

Illustrated alongside are innovations in silk and linen handkerchiefs for Spring, introducing the broad, barred border with stripes surmounting it, as well as the barred border with blocked corners.

ALLEN ADVISES 'SAFE PLAYING' IN PUBLIC LIFE

Atty.-Gen. Tells Safety Council Many "Accidents" Holding Trusted Office

Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, addressing the public conference of the Massachusetts Safety Council, today declared that there had been too much "playing safe" in public life.

Public officialdom also contains many "accidents," who, he said, "are interfering with the performance of the State's business."

"Some time ago I was astonished," he said, "when a friend stated for me that for a decade the election of the district attorneys of two of our largest counties were brought about by the underworld, for its own protection. Such a situation is obnoxious to every law-abiding citizen.

"It has been said that the people get what they want. Ie believe, however, that the people do not get the public servants they want. Special parties see to it that the men elected are those the special interests want."

Superintendent Harvey S. Gruver of the Worcester public schools said that America loses more life and property as the result of accidents than any other country in the world.

The schools should be made the great laboratory of experiment for safety first, he said. Practical demonstrations on how to avoid accidents should be made in every classroom.

He said that, by way of illustration, a cross walk could be set up in every class room, with miniature street cars and autos. Some of the students could be assigned as traffic officers. All the scholars could be taught the proper method of crossing the street to avoid accidents.

ENDLESS CHAIN TO AID BONUS IS STARTED

Get Three Friends to Sign Petition and Then Have Them Do Likewise

Have you signed the Endless Chain in aid of the soldiers' bonus? If not there is still time to act. Clip the coupon which appears on this page, sign it and then try to get three friends to do likewise.

As each of your three friends place their signatures to the petition ask them to endeavor to get three more of their friends to sign.

By this plan the Boston American expects to add thousands more signatures to the large number already obtained.

All will be sent to Washington for the purpose of urging the national lawmakers to hasten action in behalf of the adjusted compensation act for the soldiers, sailors and marines who served this country during the World War.

Thousands of New Englanders have affixed their signatures to the Boston American's petition in behalf of the ex-service man, but there is still room for additional names. The Boston American is trying to make this the largest petition ever presented to Congress.

Do you want to help? If so, just sign your name TODAY and get three friends to sign. Then mail the clipping to Petition Editor, Boston American, Boston (8), Mass., and we will do the rest.

Sidetrack Bonus Bill for Week

Washington, April 4.—The soldiers' bonus bill was sidetracked for another week in the Senate when the finance committee decided to delay the permanent tariff measure until next week.

The finance body plans to take up the bonus immediately after the tariff bill is submitted to the Senate. Senator McCumber, chairman, and other committee members had expected to get rid of the tariff before the end of the present week. They announced, however, that there will be a week's delay and that consequently the bonus will be delayed that long.

Senators Smoot of Utah, Frelinghuysen of New Jersey and other sales tax advocates on the committee announced their intention of insisting upon a resumption of public hearings before the finance committee.

Sales tax proponents believe that if the proposal is fully explained at public sessions the plan probably will be adopted by the Senate.

GILPIN TO BE HEARD BY RADIO TONIGHT

For the first time in the history of the radio wireless, a serious drama will be sent broadcast this evening from the broadcasting station of the American Radio Research Corporation at Medford Hillside, when Charles S. Gilpin, noted negro tragedian, and star of Eugene G. O'Neill's masterful drama, "The Emperor Jones," current at the Selwyn Theatre, will transmit through the huge horn extracts of Mr. O'Neill's powerfully sensational drama.

Every Signer a Link in New Bonus Chain

THIS is Endless Chain Week in the drive to make the Soldiers' Bonus petition the biggest in history.

The plan is for every advocate of the bonus to sign the petition and get at least three others to sign it. Then have each of the three get at least three more signatures, and so on.

Petition for Soldier Bonus and Sales Tax

WE respectfully petition Congress to pass the Soldiers' Bonus act without further delay and also to levy a Sales Tax to obtain the money to pay the Bonus.

DIST. ATTY. BILL REJECTED BY COMMITTEE

Requirement That Prosecutors Be Lawyers Is Turned Down

Candidates who are not lawyers will be eligible to run for district attorney this Fall as the result of an adverse vote cast today by the legislative committee on judiciary on the bill to require that district attorneys must be members of the bar. The bill was filed by the Roosevelt Club. The action by the committee in voting to report the bill adverse was received as an indication that its hostile attitude will be supported by the Republican leadership in both House and Senate.

The same committee turned down the petition of the late Police Commissioner Curtis to amend the "idle and disorderly" laws. Under the present laws many judges have held that in order to prove that a person is idle and disorderly he must be shown to be a frequenter of "tippling shops." Mr. Curtis wanted that removed from the statute books.

G. O. P. THROWN OUT BY R. I. VOTERS

Big Democratic Majority in Town Where Rival Party Was in Power

Providence, R. I., April 4.—The town of Burrillville, in the northern part of the State, one of the few in Rhode Island to have an election this year, went overwhelmingly Democratic.

It was not until today that the votes were tabulated and it was then ascertained that Republican majorities averaging 800 in 1920 had been transformed into Democratic majorities averaging 600. Every Democratic candidate for town office was elected.

Burrillville is a small district and the vote, say the Democrats, indicates what the workers of the State think of the political situation.

Senator John J. McCabe, one of the four members of the State Senate who has consistently voted for the bonus bill, was elected town clerk by a majority of 641.

In 1920 he was the only Democrat who escaped the Republican sweep and he had a plurality of only 18.

It was to be the most important evening of her life—and she knew it.

And so she tried to make herself look especially attractive. But her hair was never so dull and lifeless—so impossible to arrange, and worst of all—full of dandruff.

So she went to a hairdresser's and there she learned a wonderful secret—and that secret brought out loveliness she never knew she possessed. It changed her whole appearance.

The hairdresser's treatment

These simple directions will change your whole appearance too.

You will be surprised to see how quickly you begin to get results—how light and silky and full of life your hair becomes. And your friends will soon notice a remarkable change.

First: Wet the hair and scalp with warm water.

Second: Apply Wildroot Liquid Shampoo and rub to a rich, creamy lather. Rinse with clear warm water.

Third: Apply more Wildroot Liquid Shampoo, massaging lightly, and rinse three or four times. Dry thoroughly.

Fourth: Apply Wildroot Hair Tonic to the roots of the hair, massaging thoroughly with the finger tips.

Fifth: Moisten a sponge or cloth with Wildroot Hair Tonic. Wipe your hair, one strand at a time from the roots clear to the ends. Dry carefully.

BURGLAR FLEES AS MAN FEARS TO SHOOT

Woman in Range and Watchman Draws Gun; Jewelry Store Looted

James McClure, watchman at No. 11 Bromfield street, had just opened the door to permit a charwoman to leave the building today, when the tinkle of broken glass warned him that robbers were at work.

Running to the door he saw a man fleeing up Bromfield street toward Tremont. The charwoman was between the fugitive and McClure, and the watchman feared to shoot.

After calling the police McClure found the thief had cut a panel in the Lenox Jewelry Company's window, smashed out the glass with a brick and helped himself to a quantity of valuables.

The loot consisted of eight wrist watches valued at $84; seven other watches, fifteen pencils worth $35 and three gold mounted fountain pens valued at $74.

CURTIS BRANDS DOG'S BAPTISM A 'FRAMEUP'

Last Resort When Probe Into Career Failed, Says Ousted Brookline Pastor

Declaring that he had "emerged whole" from a searching probe into his career by a "small army of investigators" employed by the Boston Presbytery, the Rev. Edwin Curtis branded the charges that he had baptized a dog as a "frameup," the last resort of the Presbytery in its drive to oust him from the pastorate of the fashionable Brookline Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Mr. Curtis further declared that the investigation into his career had extended even to his former parishes in England. When no flaw was found, he said, the Boston Presbytery manufactured the dog baptism episode.

He stated that supported by the majority of his flock he will remain in the saddle despite the order of the Boston Presbytery.

AFFAIRS REACH CRISIS.

Affairs at the Brookline church reached a crisis Sunday when the Presbytery sent another minister to conduct services there, while Rev. and Mrs. Curtis looked on from a front pew.

A majority of the congregation supporting the pastor took drastic action when one of the trustees read from the pulpit the warrant for the next annual meeting of the church Wednesday evening, April 12.

One of the articles members are to vote on is question of the church changing its name to "The First Independent Presbyterian Society of Brookline." The articles virtually amount to open rebellion to the Boston Presbytery.

The Boston Presbytery voted to oust Rev. Mr. Curtis, charging that he baptized a dog owned by one of the church members and also blessed French fried potatoes at dinner with the same family.

"The Boston Presbytery's investigation of this case is an absolute farce," declared the Rev. Curtis today.

COMPLETE "FRAMEUP."

"It is a complete frameup. There was no formal baptism of any dog. I consider that prudence and gravity are essential elements in the life of a minister, but the form of religion that takes the laugh out of life and denies the right to sweet, wholesome humor must be intrinsically unhealthy.

"Until today I have constantly refrained from referring to the dog episode, because I deemed it beneath one's dignity and because I had confidence in the American man's common sense to estimate it at its own value.

The Boston Presbytery and some of those constituting the church's minority do not like the idea of a Congregational minister coming here.

"Despite the Boston Presbytery's action to do everything it can to hinder our church it is stronger financially and numerically than at any previous year of its long career.

SEARCHED WHOLE LIFE.

"Following my arrival from England twelve months ago and upon acceptance of the pastorate, they have searched my whole life for possible flaws.

"They had a small army of investigators looking me up. It has even extended to my former pastorates in England. My persecutors have stopped at nothing. With all their relentless investigation I have emerged whole.

"Even Dr. Clarence A. Young, chairman of the vacancy and supply committee of the Boston Prebytery, has acknowledged to me by letter that he has found nothing in my character or credentials that would prevent me from being formally installed as pastor.

"I have tried to play fair with those who have been persecuting me and conduct myself as a Christian gentleman in this matter. When I came here I discovered there was always a minority who made resolutions against the vote of the majority. Failing to find any other cause they have tried to bar me because I am English born, although I have filed my declarations for American citizenship.

UN-CHRISTIAN ACTION.

"It seems such an un-Christian thing to do. The rule in a Presbyterian Church is that when a pastorate is ordered vacated the Boston Prebytery shall notify the elders of the church. They said nothing to our people. They have been completely ignored. This is a gross violation. This is tatamount to their attitude throughout.

"There is an overwhelming majority desirous of my installation as pastor here. All my flock ask for, and all I ask for, is simple justice. We intend to insist upon it."

Mrs. Curtis said:

"Our people here know that the dog baptism is entirely beside the issue. It is that sense of injustice that is making our people take a foremost stand. They and we are fighting for a principle."

YOUNG FOLKS' SYMPHONY PROVES A DELIGHT

The joy of all the children that it takes to fill Symphony Hall is fearfully contagious. It surely has a marked effect on the few grownups who are scattered through the audience, and somehow or other, it even seems to creep in among the dignified ranks of the Symphony men.

The concerts which are given for the young people are more or less of a joy to everybody concerned, and the usual seriousness of a symphony is entirely happily absent.

The program was of just the right sort. Among other things it included the "Nutcracker Suite" of Tschaikowsky, and this had to be repeated. In fact one heard on all sides "clap and make them do it over again." Time, however, is far too short for the unlimited desires of the little folk.

Russian Trade Unions Big, but Helpless, Emma Goldman Says

Shows How Bolshevists of Today Deal With Strikers

By EMMA GOLDMAN.

All Rights Reserved. Copyright (New York World) by Press Publishing Co., 1922.

NO. X.

Stockholm, Sweden, April 4. The much praised achievement of the Bolsheviki in the matter of trades unions remainds me of Mrs. Alving's remark in Ibsen's "Ghosts": "I only wished to pick at a single knot, but when I got that undone the whole thing ravelled out. And then I understood that it was all machine sewn."

Among the first things called to one's attention when one arrives in Russia are the trades unions. Think of it, seven million workers organized into one body, having their magnificent labor temples, their educational and cultural course, their grand meetings and concerts. What other country can make such a showing? You are overwhelmed.

But no sooner do you begin to pick at one knot when the whole seam ravels out. You come to see that trades unions, more than any other Bolshevik institution, are machine sewn—sewn by the machine of the Communist state.

A CONFUSING SUBJECT.

In fact, it is most confusing to talk of trades unions under the Bolshevik regime.

Yet neither in the conservative nor even in the revolutionary sense do the trades unions represent in Russia the needs of the workers. What they really are is the coerced and militarized adjunct of the Bolshevik state. They are "the school of Communism," as Lenin insisted in his thesis on the functions of trades unions. But they are not ever that. A school presupposes the free expression and initiative of the pupils, whereas the trades unions in Russia are military barracks for the mobilized labor army, forced into membership by the whip of the state driver.

ALL-RUSSIAN SOVIET.

The All-Russian Trades Union Soviet consists of 120 members. Its central executive committee has eleven members, and practically only Communists can get elected to either body. The result is that the trades unions have become a mere branch of the State machinery, completely controlled and directed by the latter in its policies and functions.

The bakers of Moscow, representing a large and militant union, went on strike in the Summer of 1920 for an increase of their bread allowance. The government did not trouble itself much about the matter. The striking local was simply dissolved, its leaders expelled and some of the most active members arrested. The more prominent spokesmen of the strikers were forbidden to participate in any union gatherings and deprived of the right to hold office.

Similar tactics were followed by the Bolsheviki in various other strikes. An interesting incident of this character was the Moscow printers' difficulty. In their case it was not even a strike; it was merely the "impudence" of having called a meeting to which members of the British Labor Mission, then in Moscow, were invited.

At that meeting Chernoff, leader of the Social-Revolutionists, and Dan, a prominent Menshevik, committed the unpardonable sin of telling the British labor m. a few facts about the trade union and labor conditions in Russia. Immediately after that all the officials of the printers' union were suspended and some of them thrown into jail.

Throughout the country, in all official papers, the Moscow printers were heralded as counter-revolutionists, traitors and "skinners of labor" and denounced in bitterest terms that served to awe and terrorize the rest of the proletariat of the country.

So absolute and crushing is the tyranny over the trade unions that the least protest is denounced as a breach of revolutionary and labor discipline and a crime against the revolution.

FOUR MAIN TENDENCIES.

When, during the Petrograd strikes of February, 1921, the workers of the Baltic shops protested against the arrest of twenty-two of their members, they were told by Antselovitch, the chairman of the Petrograd Trades Unions, that they all belonged in the Cheka, and several days later a raid took place at the shops, resulting in the arrest of numerous workers.

In short, the trades unions in Bolshevik Russia have been entirely absorbed by the State and have no other meaning or function than to do police duty for the State.

Naturally, such conditions could not last very long without arousing the most bitter discontent on the part of the workers. In 1920 this discontent became so general and threatening the government saw itself compelled to give serious consideration to the situation. The issue of the functions of the trade unions was taken up by the end of 1920 and it soon became apparent that even within the Communist Party itself there raged conflicting views on that important question.

All the leading Communists participated in the heated verbal contest which was to decide the fate of the trade unions. The theses presented disclosed four main tendencies.

> THE Russian Revolution, however, has not been entirely in vain. It has uprooted many of the old notions of the Russian masses, and the worker is no longer the docile slave he used to be. He has been fed on politics ad nauseum; he no longer believes in it. Now that he will be able to combine with his fellows in new labor organizations he will no doubt try more direct methods to assert himself.
>
> Lenin and his retinue are sensing the danger. Their attack upon and the persecution of the Labor Opposition and the anarcho-syndicalists are continuing with even greater intensity.—From article by Emma Goldman.

First, the Lenin-Zinovieff faction, which held that "the trades unions have only one function under the proletarian dictatorship"—that is, to serve as schools of Communism.

The second tendency was represented by Riasonoff and his adherents, who insisted that the trades unions must continue to function as the forum of the workers and their economic protector.

The third faction was that of Trotzky, the military genius, who can think only in terms of militarism. He advanced the thesis that the trades unions will in time become the managers and controllers of the industries, but that for the present the union management must be appointed by military methods.

Last and most important was the Labor Opposition led by Mme. Kollantay and Schliapnikoff, who really represented the actual sentiment of the workers and had their support.

It was a battle royal, with Trotzky and Zinovieff chasing each other over the country, in separate special trains, to disprove each other's contentions. In Petrograd Zinovieff's influence was so powerful that it required a big struggle before Trotzky received permission to address the Communist local on his views about the controversy.

The latter engendered intense feeling and came near disrupting the Communist Party. But God loves Lenin. Always when his structure begins to totter the Lord sends him some prop.

The great labor unrest and numerous strikes in Petrograd in February, 1921, and the Cronstadt insurrection proved that prop. Communist unity was to be maintained at all cost. And so the Little Father took his unruly children, one by one, and taught them their manners.

A commission consisting of Lenin, Rudzyutak and Andreyeff, was chosen to prepare a thesis on the subject. Later their thesis was accepted, as usual, unanimously by the All-Russian Central Soviet of Trades Unions.

SHEDDING HIS SKIN

The thesis speaks volumes for Lenin's capacity to shed his skin. Among other things it contains the following:

(1) Compulsory enrollment of the workers in the labor organizations brought about bureaucratic deterioration of the trades unions and alienated them from the masses for saying the same things many work-

As Result Some Workers Labor Sixteen Hours Each Day

revolutionists and "skinners" and were sent to the Cheka. It is therefore now necessary to establish voluntary membership in the unions.

(2) The workers joining unions must not be interfered with or harassed on account of their political or religious faith. (Shades of the numerous victims who were discriminated against and browbeaten because of their political views unsympathetic to the Bolsheviki!)

(3) The economic reconstruction of Russia necessitates the strictest concentration of power in the hands of individual management; therefore the labor unions must not seek to control the industries leased or owned by private capitalists.

Meanwhile the Russian worker, under the new economic policy, is faring even worse than since the revolution began. He has lost even those guarantees, few as they were, that accrued to him as a result of the revolutionary changes. Especially is this true in regard to the hours of work.

The eight-hour day, practically universal in Russia for the last four years, has now been abolished de facto. Acording to the official organ, the Moscow Pravda, of December, 1921, the situation is as follows: Only 86 out of 625 industrial establishments have retained the eight-hour workday.

In most of the others work continues nine hours; in 44 establishments the work day is ten to twelve hours long; in 11, fourteen to sixteen hours exist. Even children have been found, in some places, to work twelve to fourteen hours.

The bakers are the most exploited and work longest hours, from twelve to eighteen. These data refer to conditions in Moscow, the capital of Russia. In the provinces the situation is even worse. Thus in the Don coal district the miners remain at work sixteen to seventeen continuous hours.

NOT ENTIRELY VAIN.

In the state leather factory in Vitebsk twelve hours constitutes the normal work day; in the Astrakhan fisheries, according to the local representative at the Second All-Russian Conference for the Protection of Labor, the work day is virtually unlimited.

It can be thus seen how the new policy of state and private capitalism is showering its blessings on the Russian worker.

The Russian Revolution, however, has not been entirely in vain. It has uprooted many of the old notions of the Russian masses, and the worker is no longer the docile slave he used to be. He has been fed on politics ad nauseum; he no longer believes in it. Now that he will be able to combine with his fellows in new labor organizations he will no doubt try more direct methods to assert himself.

Lenin and his retinue are sensing the danger. Their attack upon and the persecution of the Labor Opposition and the anarcho-syndicalists are continuing with even greater intensity.

Is it that the anarcho-syndicalist star is rising in the East? Who knows—Russia is the land of miracles.

THE END.

TABLOID REVUE PLEASES AT MAJESTIC

"Chuckles of 1922" Chief Feature of Entertaining Vaudeville Bill

"Chuckles of 1922," a potpourri musical comedy and burlesque extravaganza, heads the program at the Majestic this week. The feature is, in reality, a tabloid edition of "The Follies," in seven scenes, with "girly, girly" chorus "an' everythin'."

The diminutive comedy is replete with laughs; carries several catchy songs and has a goodly number of attractive girls.

The White Way Trio, whose members also are characters in the "Chuckles of 1922," was one of the best acts of the remainder of the bill. The Gaudsmiths, with their two clown dogs, entertain in acrobatics; Frank Johnson, baritone, sings unusually well for the vaudeville stage, and Frank and Maisie Hughes present a meritorious act, "Old and New Dances."

SOMERVILLE THEATRE—The presentation of "Experience" by the Somerville players at their popular Davis square playhouse gave unbounded satisfaction to capacity audiences yesterday. "Experience" is an allegorical play by George V. Hobart, and the various players of this excellent company gave a remarkable interpretation of the difficult roles.

POWERFUL MELODRAMA ST. JAMES OFFERING

"The Silent Witness," which was acclaimed the greatest drama since "Madame X," was revived again last night at the St. James Theatre, with Walter Gilbert, Florence Roberts and Anna Mason in the prominent roles.

It is a melodrama with a true dramatic motive—that the public prosecutor should be the attorney of all the people and not merely for a single class. The story is told of a boy working his way through college, fighting against the handicap of the competition with sons of wealthy men. One of these wealthy boys sneers at the young lad's parentage, and a fight follows, the rich boy being killed; but all turns out well.

The Boston Stock Company showed itself up to good advantage, all members of the cast being adapted to the parts. Their work, as a whole, is indeed commendable.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision for over 30 years. Allow no one to deceive you in this. Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but experiments, and endanger the health of Children—Experience against Experiment.

Never attempt to relieve your baby with a remedy that you would use for yourself.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. WHERE DOES SHE GO FROM HERE? But wherever she does go she knows that she will look smart and trim in this exquisite street dress of navy home[illegible] complimented by a close-fitting floral turban draped with a charming lace veil that flows gracefully behind

GIVEN A CAPITAL WELCOME! Miss Elizabeth Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Adams of Washington, one of the newest additions to the younger set of the capital, whose personal charm has made her instantly popular. Her father is chairman of the National Republican Committee. (Underwood)

A SUBJECT FOR MILLET! It seems only a few months ago that this pastoral scene on a farm in Chemin Des Dames, in the heart of the fighting zone, was an area of screaming bullets. Instead of lowing cows, dead horses and men dotted the turf. Although the farm has been condemned by the government, the owner has returned to wring a living from the soil.

IF "ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE," THEN THERE'S TOO MANY ACTORS OUT OF WORK! Above is shown Miss Eva Purdy, a former member of the play-producing course at Columbia University, and her "Everyman's Portable Theatre," just exhibited in New York. It is made in puppet sizes or big enough for flesh and blood actors, and can be transported anywhere and set up complete in every detail. This photograph shows the inventor and a puppet sized stage. SHADE SAYS HE WILL KNOCK SIEGAL OUT IN BIG BATTLE AT THE ARENA TONIGHT

DOES YOUR BROTHER CULTIVATE HIS VOICE?

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

I DON'T KNOW IF HE CULTIVATES IT, BUT I DO KNOW HE IRRIGATES IT SOMETIMES

SHADE PICKED TO WIN BOUT WITH SIEGAL IN ARENA RING

By JACK CONWAY.

Dave Shade, California's wonder welterweight, says he will show Boston and New England fans [illegible] to be the next world's champion when he battles Nate Siegal of Revere in a ten-round bout at the Boston Arena tonight. This nineteen-year-old youth, who has held Jack Britton even on two occasions, declares he will smash his way to a knockout victory over our local [illegible].

When asked by the writer what [illegible] in action, Shade replied [illegible]:

"I just keep on fighting until the other fellow cries 'quits'!"

A glance at [illegible] record convinces one he is a regular, two-fisted fighting [illegible].

After Dave had [illegible] his way to wins over every welterweight of prominence on the Pacific coast a Portland promoter [illegible] Jack Britton [illegible] to journey to the West coast. Britton had [illegible] sensation, but he figured he would not experience much trouble in defeating him.

Shade Drops Britton for Count of Nine

The champion received a severe jolt [illegible] of a right [illegible] smash to the jaw [illegible] Shade. The boss of all the welterweights [illegible]

[illegible]

"We must be shown," they told the Coast youth.

And he showed them. He hopped over to Jersey and trounced Mickey Walker and George Ward, two of the best welterweights in the East.

Holds Champion to Draw For the Second Time

[illegible] even.

Pinkey Mitchell Is Knocked Out in Four Rounds

Pinkey Mitchell of Milwaukee [illegible]

They expected Mitchell to win. Instead, Pinkey was knocked for a row of goals in four rounds. Those persons who let their bank rolls ride on Shade made a cleanup.

O'Brien and Terrin Clash in the Semi-Final

The semi-final of eight rounds will find Shaver O'Brien [illegible] trading blows with Sammy Terrin of St. Paul, who has [illegible] a couple of local bouts.

Mickey Forkins of this city will take the place of [illegible] McKinnon in an eight-session affair with Billy Woods of Medford. Then Lew Paluso of Salt Lake City will have eight rounds with Johnny Drew of Worcester.

Capacity Crowd to See Ring Men in Action

There has been a heavy demand for reservations at the [illegible] Arena A. C. at Room [illegible] street. Secretary [illegible] looks for a capacity crowd. Popular prices for this show have made a hit with the fans.

ABE FRIEDMAN WINNER OVER FREDDIE CURRY

New York, April 4.—Abe Friedman, of Boston, won the referee's decision over Freddie Curry of [illegible] city in twelve rounds at the Star Athletic Club. Freedman captured ten out of the twelve rounds, before one of the largest crowds ever seen at the club.

Shade to Win

(Boxing Menu)

Tonight—Arena A. C., Boston Arena—Dave Shade, Pacific coast welterweight champion, vs. Nate Siegal, Revere, ten rounds. Jack Conway says: "Let the family jewels ride on Shade to win. He's held Britton even twice, defeated Mickey Walker and George Ward and knocked out Pinkey Mitchell." Shaver O'Brien vs. Sammy Terrin, eight rounds; Mickey Perkins vs. Billy Woods, eight rounds; Lew Paluso vs. Johnny Drew, eight rounds.

Penn Runner, Head, Out of English Team Race

By Universal Service.

London, April 4.—Coach Lawson Robertson of the Pennsylvania University relay team, says that Dawson Head has not recovered from the blood poisoning suffered while the runners were sailing to England, and would not run Saturday against the Oxford-Cambridge team.

The loss, he added, would not seriously affect the Americans' [illegible]. The Penn athletes were [illegible] Oxford to be guests of the university for three days. They will go to Paris early next week to compete against the French team on Easter Sunday.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON

New York's Yankees have assembled a pitching staff which so far outclasses any other in the circuit that any team beating them out will have to be approximately 8 per cent. better than the Yankees.

The pitching staff gives the Yankees [illegible]

* * *

The superiority of the Yankees' pitching staff since the acquisition of Jones has been pretty generally acknowledged. Cleveland, in fact, has been the only real challenger, and the uncertainty of the Cleveland staff makes their claims weak.

Cleveland depends very largely upon whether or not Morton can come back. He was useless to the team after July 1 last year, and Mails, from whom much was expected, failed to show much of the wonder stuff he spilled the preceding Fall.

Coveleskie ought to be as good as ever, provided the assistants do not weaken and compel him to overwork in trying to carry the burden of the team. The prospect of Uhle improving is very great, and Cleveland has a staff well anchored around Coves, but needing numerical strength.

ATHLETICS OUT FOR HONORS IN SOMERVILLE

Diamond Stars Reorganize for 1922 Season With Several New Men

The Somerville Athletics [illegible] the St. Joseph's Cubs, have [illegible] organized for 1922 and are out to [illegible] all semi-pro teams in New England.

The new men on the team are George Chaquet, who pitched for Rogers High School, Newport, R. I., several years ago; Wilfred White, who had a very successful season with the Glenwoods of Cambridge last year, and Frank (Peanut) Mayo, a former star pitcher in the navy.

The rest of the lineup includes Catcher, George (Bangle) McIntire; first base, [illegible]; second base, Joe Cotter; shortstop, [illegible] MacEachern; third base, [illegible]; left field, Leo Curtin; [illegible] field, Al Cotter, and right field, Bill Mullin.

The team is out to have a very successful season under the management of [illegible] Walsh [illegible] assisted by Edward [illegible].

Games are wanted for Saturdays, twilights, holidays and Sundays, either at or away from home. Communicate by writing to St. Joseph's Catholic Association, 17 Webster avenue, Somerville, or by calling Somerville [illegible] between 6 and 8 p. m.

Communicate with William Bray, 349 Saratoga street, East Boston, or call East Boston [illegible] between 6 and [illegible] any night. P. S.—Prefer such teams as Cambridge Browns, St. Bridget's or SS. Peter and Paul.

CANTON FANS LOOK FOR DECIDING GAME

Talk of the split between the management of the Canton Knights of Columbus and Stoughton C. A. A. basketball teams is getting obnoxious. The fans of Canton want a third game with Stoughton at any price. The first game was a victory for Stoughton by one point, and the second was tied after a five-minute overtime period.

MESSENGER BOY TO SHOW MARATHON STARS SOME REAL SPEED

By CHARLES E. PARKER

A popular belief, one which has been the subject of countless cartoons, is due for a rude shock on April 19.

On that day one Raymond Hubbs of New York City will demonstrate to the throng that lines the Ashland-to-Boston Marathon course, that messenger boys can run.

It long has been the conviction that no messenger boy is physically or temperamentally able to increase his pace above that of a slow, meandering walk.

But Raymond must have demonstrated the fallacy of this for he holds the messenger boy long distance championship of New York [illegible] will come to Boston backed to win.

Raymond will wear the colors of the Western Union Athletic Association in the annual B. A. A. race, and it appears he is a boy only for business reasons, nearly thirty Summers and a like number of Winters having passed over his head.

Raymond's name brought the list of entries thus far received to twenty-four, and at the rate the mail man is depositing blanks on Manager Tom Kanaly's desk at the B. A. A. club house, one of the largest and strongest fields ever to start in a B. A. A. long distance event will line the starting mark at Ashland on the approaching holiday.

Italian Marathon Champion Entered

Among those who already have filed blanks are Atnelio Molinari, [illegible] of the Marathon championship of Italy; John [illegible], a native of [illegible], now residing in Quincy, and who finished fifth in the Olympic Marathon run at Antwerp in 1920, and placed ninth in last year's B. A. A. race; Gremie St. Meuse, a full blooded Indian, who will represent the [illegible] of Milton; Albert Smoke of Peterboro, Ontario, another redskin, who came to fame last year through winning the Hamilton, Ontario, road race; A. Monteverde, the fifty-two-year-old distance runner from Morristown, N. J., who has never failed to finish the Ashland to Boston race, and has landed well up with the leaders on several occasions.

All these will add colorfulness to the grueling procession which is to troop the twenty-five mile course two weeks from tomorrow.

But of particular noteworthiness are Matthew E. Kelly of Fort Pierce, Florida, and George F. and Edgar McAlpine of Dorchester and Exeter, N. H., respectively.

Kelly, not sufficiently impressed with the trotting of a mere twenty-five miles on April 19, is even now plodding afoot from the Florida fort to Boston, and Manager Tom Kanaly will not be surprised if, on the morning of the race, Kelly refuses a ride to the starting mark.

Kelly also has entered his name as an aspirant for amateur boxing honors, and if he reaches the Hub on time will take part in the national amateur boxing championships at the Arena the day before the Marathon.

The one former B. A. A. marathon winner, whose name has been forwarded, is Carl Linder of Quincy, who will wear the Unicorn of the B. A. A. Linder won the event in 1919, finished third in 1920 and was fourth last year.

Father and Son May Make Family Affair of the Marathon

The McAlpines, who are entered in the Marathon race, are father and son, according to Manager Kanaly. The father, George F., is listed from the Dorchester Club, while the son, Edgar, is to run unattached from Exeter, N. H.

That they will team up along the route and endeavor to make the race a family affair is the belief of those acquainted with them.

BEAUTY'S WORTH

The Delightful Love Story of a Quaker Maid

A Fascinating Romance in Which an Ingenious and Beautiful Girl Finds the Rainbow's End

THE ACTION SO FAR

Prudence Cole whose ancestors founded the Quaker settlement of [illegible], finds herself as a little [illegible] less. Her father [illegible] brought up by two [illegible] aunts—the Misses Elizabeth and Cynthia Whitney. While she is with them being reared in the old homestead [illegible] Prudence is the dearest of her relatives. She weaves a [illegible] romance about Henry [illegible] a good-looking boy [illegible] him against the aspira[illegible] newcomer, [illegible] Rovein whose language shocks [illegible] aunts. One of the attractive scenes from "Beauty's Worth," the new motion picture coming to Loew's Orpheum next Monday. Prudence Cole (Marion Davies), acting as the emissary of the society crowd, asks Rovein, the artist, to take charge of the charades they hope to give. He is at first astounded, knowing none of them would have dared ask him directly.

BALTIMORE WOMAN'S MESSAGE TO MOTHERS

At 820 W. Hayward Ave. lives Mrs. Henry Johnson, who a few weeks ago wrote what may be termed a good message to all mothers. She said: "I have used Dr. True's Elixir for more than ten years and know it is good. She used Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, to rid her children of worms. There is hardly a child but what needs Dr. True's Elixir, for they all usually have worms when growing up. Mrs. Johnson appreciates what Dr. True's Elixir accomplishes. Your children will be in better health through its use.

Symptoms to watch: Constipation, offensive breath, slow fever, biliousness, pains in stomach, red points on tongue, swollen upper lip, starting during sleep. 40c—60c—$1.20.

LARGE PIMPLES DISFIGURED FACE

Hard and Red. Lost Rest. Cuticura Heals.

"My trouble began with pimples that were hard, large and red, and very disagreeable. They were scattered all over my face which was disfigured for the time being. I lost my rest at night on account of the irritation.

"The trouble lasted about two months. I tried different remedies but they did not help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter." Mrs. W. S. [illegible], Greenville, Del.

Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Mothers—daughters, why not try it?

Johnston Chases a Rabbit and Gets Him

By Universal Service.

Little Rock, Ark., April 4.—Jimmy Johnston, the Brooklyn third baseman, may be a veteran, but he has a lot of speed.

In the ninth inning of a wild game with the Yankees an inquisitive rabbit tunneled under the fence and bobbed up on the field.

Johnston chased after him as though going for a ground liner, and made a spectacular one-hand catch.

Whether the "cottontail" came to see "what all the shootin' was for or to see Babe Ruth is a matter of opinion.

HARVARD NINE TO OPEN SEASON SATURDAY

A new baseball season will start at Harvard this week. The Crimson nine will encounter Providence College at Soldiers Field on Saturday.

With three more home contests scheduled for the following week, the Crimson team will have played their first four games in eight days before leaving on their Southern trip, on which they will clash twice with Georgia Tech and spend a week in a training camp at Atlanta.

The Harvard squad will return to college in time for classes at the end of the Spring vacation and will then enter upon a schedule that calls for three contests each week for the rest of the season. The Cambridge management has arranged as far as possible to have games on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Goode and Russell [illegible] for the first two [illegible] those with Georgia [illegible] Atlanta. These two [illegible] are not [illegible] only [illegible] of the [illegible] victories in the Yale and Princeton series.

Much depends upon their showing. Goode, who has pitched for Harvard for two years, is one of the headiest college boxmen in the game, but he must show a lot of stuff to set back outfits like Georgia Tech and Holy Cross.

Russell, who subbed for Goode last year, is coming along well for a comparatively inexperienced [illegible], and Coach Slattery has hopes that he may [illegible] of substantial value before the end of the season. If the Methuen lad comes through in his start against Georgia Tech the news will cheer the heart of many a Crimson supporter.

There is doubt that any other hurler sees action in either of the Atlanta contests. Hill and Gehrke are possibilities, but they are green. Gehrke, incidentally, never attempted to pitch until last Spring when a freshman coach happened to see him playing with another candidate for the outfield and decided to use him in the box. His work was somewhat erratic and unsteady, although he showed up well in a few games. The Cleveland youth has a lot to learn about the art of hurling but he will be given every opportunity to become a regular Harvard. A strong, powerful frame that stood him in good stead on the gridiron last Fall, and particularly the Fall of 1918, should be an asset to [illegible] work on the mound.

There are plenty of good catchers on hand. Murphy, a Malden boy who caught the Yale games last year, will start the opening games. However, Larrabee, last year's freshman backstop, has all the appearances of a classy player and he is scheduled to see some action behind the bat before the season is over.

DILBOY POST PUTS ON A MONTHLY SHOW APRIL 6

Somerville fistic followers are in for another evening of action when the George Dilboy Post, V. F. W., puts on its regular monthly show next Thursday evening at K. of C. building.

The last show staged by the "vets" was a record [illegible] for an open show in this vicinity, forty-one bouts being run off. As the classes to be contested at 105 [illegible] and 147 pounds have filled well [illegible]. Thursday night's show should also be a long one.

LINART WILL RETURN TO REVERE TRACK

Victor Linart, the Belgian motor-paced rider, is under contract to ride for [illegible] this Summer at the Revere Beach track. He will defend his European championship in a race in Belgium April 30 before he sails.

BROOKLINE HIGH'S NINE LOOKS FOR FLAG

By FRED C LANE

Brookline High will be represented on the diamond this Spring with a team that looms up as the prospective winner in the Suburban League. This is the opinion of Coach Heinie Carroll, who handles the ball tossers, and as a rule his judgment is usually accurate.

The Brookline team will be a hitting organization. It was in a class by itself last season in this respect and judging from the batting practice of the first few days' workout bids fair to better the reputation acquired last season.

[illegible] one drawback, liable to prove a serious obstacle in the path of the Brookline team, is the lack of a good shortstop. Catching stars in schoolboy ranks are not found every year. Cambridge Latin had Puna Gautreau last season but another of his calibre may not make his appearance for some time.

Plenty of Candidates

There are plenty of candidates for the mask and protector job, however. John Newton, Harold Whittemore, Charlie Young, who caught last year, and a freshman, Moore, make up the list of aspirants for this important position.

Young is a light hitter and a fair backstop. Whittemore has shown more talent with the willow than the rest and will perhaps be given a uniform next week. Moore has the ability but is green, while John Newton will be shifted to some other position if he continues to show well at the bat.

Big Ed. Mullowney Is Mainstay on the Mound

Big Ed Mullowney [illegible] mainstay on the mound. John [illegible] has taken on a few more pounds and is ticketed for a big season. Harry F[illegible] shows up well in hurling to the batters and should develop.

A hot fight is being staged for the initial sack position by Dan Daley, Steve Gentile and A. Johnson. To pick one from the three is a hard proposition. All have plenty of ability for the important cog in the machine.

Art Philips is hitting the ball as hard as ever so that Bill [illegible] must display real talent to displace last year's second baseman.

League's Babe Ruth Is Back in the Fold

"Frankey" Chase, who had more extra base hits than any other player in the league, is back in the fold. All pitching looks alike to Chase, who has been named the Babe Ruth of the league.

Alex Murray will start at shortstop. He has an understudy in Londerner who will play the position when he is cavorting in the outfield. Brothers Casson, Hopkins, Kaplan, Plez and Murray will play in the outfield.

Seven candidates are working daily for the relay team that will go to the Penn games April 29. The track at Tech Field was covered with water so that the lads practiced on the road. The five boys for the trip will be picked after the trials held on Friday.

A change has been made in the first Brookline boat. Umlah, who has been rowing No. 2, has been displaced by Orth. A reduction in the squad will take place later.

Schoolboy crew coaches will hold a meeting today to systematize practice sessions. The Tech float is not large enough to accommodate all five school crews and Tech candidates, so that a new arrangement must be made.

Lynn English Crew Goes on Water Today

The Lynn English crew men will be called out today for the first practice. Jerry Hickey will be coach. The crew has the use of the Farragut Boat Club.

Captain Everett Watson has proved to be an able leader. Much of his spare time last Winter was spent in keeping the best candidates up in their studies, so as to avoid any set-back for the boat.

The cox position is one place in the first boat that Coach Hickey must fill. Art Duffey, who held the tiller last season, has left school. Spud Murphy has grown too heavy for the job.

Faculty Manager Burke is planning a big drive for the sale of tags on April 12, 13 and 14, to help finance the crew. As the first boat will meet Brookline, Rindge and the Tech Freshman, and their rival Lynn Classical, the co-operation of all students in the school is needed to make the season a success.

Roy Chamberlain, who captained last year's crew, is home for three weeks from college. He will assist Coach Hickey, who plans to have a four as well as the eight.

Nine Letter Men Out for the Dedham Nine

The Dedham High baseball team that made such a fine record last season, reported in a body to Coach Sutherland. Ten letter men, nine of them first string players, are in condition for a hard season. The team will have the following players: Captain Manderville, first base; Andrew Carroll, pitcher; Bill Flynn, catcher; Leo Colhas, third; John Hoolan, second; John Connors, short; Jack Smith, pitcher. Fred Walton and Neil McLeod will make up two positions in the outfield.

LONDOS-ABERG TO GRAPPLE IN MAT BOUT

Greek Champion Will Have Hands Full With Russian Giant at G. O. H.

Jim Londos, the Greek mat champion, is going to have his hands full when he tackles Fred Aberg, the young Russian giant, in the feature bout at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night.

Aberg is [illegible] training at a country town in New Hampshire and will come to town tomorrow [illegible] and ready for the battle of his life.

In the semi-final Charles Metro was originally scheduled to meet Frank [illegible] but [illegible] refused to make weight [illegible].

The [illegible] will bring together [illegible] and Kid Wallace of Lynn.

Dundee Will Fight Martin

Toronto, April 4.—Johnny Dundee will box "Midget" Martin in New York on April 13 for $1,000 at 130 pounds [illegible] this afternoon.

NEW COURSE MAPPED OUT FOR BELMONT SPRING GOLFERS

By FRED G. THAYER.

Members of the Belmont Spring Country Club look forward to the meeting of April 15, when the complete new tournament schedule with changes, will be announced. At that time the committees will outline the plans and also instruct the members what changes in course construction will be made.

The first event of importance will be held on April 19, and every club member anticipates with feverish excitement play on the newly vamped course.

* * *

Donald Ross has remodelled the links so that some of the holes will lose their identity and others will disappear completely. All the new holes will be put in play, on the holiday, except the new No. 3 and the eighth green.

* * *

The new distances provide two holes 500 or over, one going out and the other coming in; two five holes going out and one five coming in; four three holes, and the rest fours. The new par will be [illegible] and 36, total of 71 [illegible] an exceedingly [illegible] low figures for [illegible] of the four holes will be hard fours and two of the three holes [illegible] five strokes [illegible] yards.

Play on the new layout will start as formerly in front of the [illegible] green will be set farther back [illegible] 433 yards. The course of direction of the new hole will be [illegible] about midway between the present 12th tee and 12th green across [illegible] fairway into the new land. This green [illegible] Ross green [illegible] and trapped, somewhat [illegible].

The new second tee will be near the first green and play will be parallel to the first fairway to the present [illegible] instead of [illegible] formerly. The green will be the same with the exception that the traps are [illegible] to conform to the new direction of the approach shot. All the traps are not built. The distance is 345 yards.

* * *

Walking across the road a new tee has been constructed and a new green 183 yards distant is trapped at the sides, front and back. This green offers little hope for a topped ball. It must be carried on the fly with a stiff iron, cleek or spoon.

* * *

The green is properly banked in the rear and the traps are deep. The location of the new green is [illegible] opposite the cross bunker which is between the third and fourth holes, two-thirds of the way up the hill. This hole will be a sweet three.

Number four will remain the same as formerly, requiring two long woods and perhaps a mashie to get home.

The old fifth hole has been accorded its rightful place—[illegible]. The new fifth will be the old sixth and played from the new tee constructed last year.

Instead of climbing the hill to the old seventh tee the new sixth tee will be set at the side of the hill immediately beneath the new fifth green, or to the left of the green as one approaches the fifth hole. From this high spot play will extend across the old seventh and eighth fairways to a green located in the new land beyond the eighth fairway, which was formerly in the out of bounds region.

Climbing the hill to the old ninth tee one will find the eighth hole a distance of 405 yards and play continues across the old punch-bowl ninth green to one well trapped and banked in back at the top of the slope, twenty-five yards to the rear. A very deep trap appears at the front to the right and rough abounds all about the green, beyond the bunkers.

* * *

Instead of going to the old tenth tee for the new ninth, players will [illegible] their ball in the opposite direction and try their iron or cleek for a 161-yard shot to a green located on the top of the hill where the old third green was. The green is raised in back and well guarded traps [illegible] its position.

The old tenth hole is played from the top of this hill and the distance is 400 yards. The old tenth green has been [illegible] in size, banked and properly guarded. Rocks in the front of this green have been removed and the land graded and smoothed. The approach is no longer a trick shot, on the contrary the green is perfectly visible and [illegible] the right kind of a shot will be rewarded.

Crossing the road at the old eleventh tee play is resumed in another new lot of land acquired by the club some time ago. The eleventh hole will run down to the corner formed by the junction of the road and the out of bounds [illegible] at the road on the old twelfth fairway 75 yards in front to the left of the old twelfth tee. This measures 37[illegible] yards.

* * *

The new twelfth hole is a pretty [illegible] also a sweet one-shot poke [illegible] yards to an elevated green. The tee is on high land and the fairway from tee runs down hill and the approach to green is up hill.

Number 13 tee will be back in new land close to the new twelfth green and will increase the distance of this hole to 412 yards. The new terraced thirteenth green played for the past year will not be altered. For the benefit of those who have not seen this hole, the direction of play is at right angles to the new twelfth fairway.

Number 14 hole will have a few new traps at the side, and otherwise will not be changed.

The new fifteenth tee will make the old fifteenth green 378 yards distant. The tee is back of the old one and on higher land.

The sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth holes will wind up this attractive stretch of varied topography and the traps on the short 1[illegible] yard. The sixteenth will be brought forward a bit to the front of the green, making it still more difficult.

Drink MOXIE
TRADE-MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFFICE

TO MOXIE DEALERS EVERYWHERE:—

We must again beg your indulgence in filling your Moxie orders C, in behalf of our jobbers as well as ourselves.

Shipments of Moxie for March were One Hundred and Ninety-eight percent (198%) greater than last August. (August as a rule is our largest month.)

We opened for business April 3rd with all of our outside storehouses, in which we had stored thousands upon thousands of cases of Moxie, cleaned out, and at Moxie-Land we had only twenty-six cases of Moxie with which to start business, but we have orders for thousands upon thousands of cases of Moxie to be shipped. We refer to this simply to show you the task we have before us.

The Moxie manufacturing department in Moxie-Land is humming as never before, and every Moxie Associate fully realizes the task before him, but nothing stumps a Moxie man.

Your Moxie order C will be delivered as speedily as is humanly possible and every effort will be made that the millions upon millions of Moxie drinkers may be taken care of.

Again thanking you for this enormous business, believe us

Very truly yours,
THE MOXIE COMPANY,

Stocks Close Weak in Wild Million-Share Session; Call Money at 4½%

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

—By B. C. Forbes—

Let's be fair. If so many people have suffered grievous losses through dealing with unscrupulous or unsafe brokers because they found that New York Stock Exchange houses didn't want their business, it stands to reason that these reputable houses had good grounds for acting as they did. Why did they and why do they fight shy of buying and selling small lots of stocks on margin or on a partial payment basis?

Simply because there is no profit in it.

* * *

It would seem curious that nonmembers of the Stock Exchange should be eager for business which members do not welcome. The explanation is very simple; Stock Exchange members actually fill every order received, whereas, as recent revelations have shown, many other brokerage firms collect commissions without filling the orders placed with them.

* * *

Haven't we reached a sorry pass, however, when the person of small or moderate means, who desires to invest in stocks or bonds is discouraged rather than encouraged by the highest grade of houses handling the buying and selling of securities? Does it not behoove the leading Stock Exchange in America to grapple with this serious national problem, and find a solution satisfactory alike to these small customers and to stock exchange members?

Happily the Stock Exchange authorities realize the need for considering this whole subject and have called a meeting for this week to take it up with interested members. It will reflect discredit on the business statesmanship of governors and members if they cannot evolve some workable plan which will steer small traders away from untrustworthy brokers and make it feasible for dependable Stock Exchange firms to cater to this class of business.

* * *

Probably not one person in a thousand has the slightest idea of how many details have to be attended to in the buying of one share or five shares or ten shares of stock on the installment payment plan. An enumeration of these details will make very clear why few Stock Exchange houses have discontinued to accept such business. No fewer than 127 operations are entailed in the filling of each order.

* * *

The following detailed list of these different operations has been compiled for readers of this column by a high-grade Stock Exchange house, which formerly made a specialty of this type of business but which, in common with other Stock Exchange firms, finds that the business cannot be carried on profitably under the regulations now in force:

Take order
Relay to Stock Exchange.
Relay to odd lot dealer.
Receive report of execution (often claim for fairer price).
Execution to notice clerk.
Calculate extension.
Prepare notice to customer.
Pass to mail clerk.
Address checked and mailed.
Duplicate notice filed.
Enter on sheet.
Compare with odd lot dealer.
Bookkeeper prepares ledger account.
Entry on stock record.
Receive initial deposit.
Procure signature card.
Customer's signed agreement.
Make receipt in triplicate.
Original receipt to mail clerk.
Address checked; receipt mailed.
Deposit entered on cash sheet.
Deposit prepared for bank.
Cash sheet posted to ledger account.
Certificate received from odd lot dealer.
Certificate number recorded.
Check drawn for full price.
Certificates entered in box book.
Certificate transferred to firm's name to secure procuring dividends for credit to customer's account.
Obtain receipt from transfer office.
Send following day with receipt for new certificate.
Record new certificate number in box book.
Place certificates in box.
Watch account to see that monthly payments are made.
Make out statement every three months.
Check in stock guide.
Check in margins.
Sent to mail clerk.
Address checked and mailed.
Receive nine to eighteen additional payments.
Mail individual receipts therefor.
Enter on cash sheets.
Deposit checks.
Enter each in ledger account.
Calculate interest monthly.
Strike balances.
Credit dividends due at proper times.
Finally transfer certificates to customer's name procuring receipt from transfer office.
Send for new certificate in exchange for receipt.
Enter in registered mail book.
Make out receipt.
Send to postoffice by special messenger.
Mail certificate to customer—registered insured mail.
Check out receipt returned by postoffice.
Check on receipt returned by customer.
Forty-six regular operations.
Eighty-one monthly operations.
One hundred and twenty-one operations.

* * *

It would seem that it is absolutely necessary to change the present regulations in such a way that it will be made reasonably profitable for Sock Exchange members to do business with the rank and file of buyers of stocks and bonds. After all, the rank and file of investors constitute, in the aggregate, the most important body of investors in the country.

What will the Stock Exchange authorities do about it?

LEADERS REACT AFTER NOON RALLY

Wide Range for Studebaker; Lowest Prices for the Day in the Last Hour

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks closed weak in New York, lowest prices for the day being recorded in the last hour. All the speculative leaders were down at the end, including Studebaker, U. S. Steel, Mexican Petroleum, Pan American, Reading, N. Y. Central, Bethlehem B, Famous Players, Gulf States Steel, New Haven, General Asphalt, Republic Steel, Baldwin and American Locomotive.

Studebaker was off 2¾ at 115¾ at the end. U. S. Steel had receded ⅝ to 96⅝ after selling above [illegible] while Mexican Petroleum had sagged 1¼ to 122¾. Early in the [illegible] United Fruit advanced more than four points to 147½, but [illegible] hold at its gain.

It was another million-share session [illegible] transactions aggregating the most for any day so far this year.

The opening was remarkable for activity, especially as regards industrials. For a while the market boiled, transactions being at the rate of two million and a half shares for a session. Early prices showed gains of from fractions to more than three points. All kinds of stocks participated in the upturn. Studebaker was the early leader, selling up to 119¼. Large blocks changed hands. Mexican Petroleum was also prominent, but did not have as wide a range.

Profit taking followed the advance and caused a reaction. From irregularity the list sagged to weakness. By noon losses were the rule. At midday there was a rally which continued into the last hour when there was another period of realization selling. Record highs for the New York Exchange were made by Pacific Oil, Davison Chemical, Allied Chemical, which is said to have banking backing, and Computing Tabulating. Highs for a year or more were reached by Erie, Pennsylvania, Atlantic Gulf, International Mercantile Marine issues, Caddo Oil, Pullman, Studebaker, U. S. Steel and United Fruit.

The breadth of the demand for stocks indicated increasing public participation. But trading is described as highly speculative. Trading in Studebaker was wild for awhile. Its rally was attributed to President Erskine's statement of great prosperity for the corporation. The market was more active during the morning than for the first two hours of any session in several years.

Call money opened at 4½ per cent. Foreign exchange rates advanced.

Stock Market Was Unsettled

By W. S. COUSINS.
Copyright, 1922, Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, April 4.—Alternate waves of buying and selling dashed over the stock market today, causing serious unsettlement in the highly speculative issues, while the old line investment stocks either held their ground or moved forward at a moderate pace.

After one of the most vigorous openings of the year, in which practically all of the high records were made, the market moved off and touched its low point around noon, led by Studebaker, which fell abruptly from 117⅝ to 114¼. Coincident with the favorable report Studebaker advanced beyond 116, carrying the rest of the list with it. Then follow a sustained rise, embracing nearly every section of the market, until about one hour before the closing when realizing sales resulted.

Copped stocks did not exhibit any definite tendencies, but moved within narrow limits to slightly higher prices. Copper exports to Europe are gradually increasing, even Germany has come into the field for America's red metal.

Bond Market Is Active and Higher

By MUNROE ROBERTS.
Copyright, 1922, Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, April 4.—For the first time this year one of the Liberty Bond issues reached par, the First 4¼s advancing from 99.10 to 100 under heavy demand. The 3½ per cents. sold up to 98.84; the Second 4¼s at 98.90, and the Third 4¼s at 99.04.

Announcement was made that the $60,000,000 New York Central five per cents. were alloted on a 30 per cent. basis to all subscribers. The listed bond market was active and generally higher. Mexican bonds reacted, the 5s selling at 62½. Seaboard Air Line 6s sold at 53, up 1¼, while the adjustment 5s gained ½ at 22. St. Paul convertible 4½s sold at 60¼ and the convertible 5s gained a point at 60½. Frisco income 6s made a new high at 66, an advance of 20 points from the December last low. B. R. T. 7s made a new high at 80. Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s made a new high at 80½. United Kingdom 5s of 1937 and French Republic 8 per cents. led foreign bonds.

Today's new issues include: $7,000,000 United Light & Railways Co. first lien consolidated mortgage 6 per cent. gold bonds; $1,500,000 St. Louis County, Minn., 10-20 year 5 per cent. Bank of Minneapolis 5 per cent. bonds.

Foreign Exchange

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, April 4.—The foreign exchange market was firm at the opening today. Sterling advanced ⅝ and French francs four points. Deman sterling opened at 4.39⅞ and cables at 440¼. French francs.0914, for checks and .0914¼ for cables. Lire at .0533½, up .0004; Marks at .0031, off .0000¼.

Suez Canal Traffic

SPECULATOR IS FAR AHEAD OF EVENTS

Working on Statistics That Come Over Wires Every Minute, Says Evans

By C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, April 4.—Now the speculator rides at the head of the procession mounted on his prancing prices. He has been interested in the great cause of American prosperity these months and even years, but has kept himself in comparative seclusion.

He is far ahead of events, which are coming along in ox teams, but with the sure tread of the ox and with the certainty that there will be a change in the method of traction to horsepower and then gasoline, but probably not this year.

The speculator operates essentially in the filed of imagination, which in due time is transmuted into fulfilled prophecy, provided his apparatus of imagination is correctly built. The conditions he forecasts are the essentials of his success and they are made out of the experiences of former years. But for the ordinary trade of a day his historical review should not extend back much beyond 10 seconds, especially if he is trading in stocks.

MINUTELY STATISTICS.

One can divide speculators and investors into classes, the classification being determined by the rapidity with which the individual decides on the course he will pursue, the time when essential facts are made known and the main basis of action.

The best statistics are those which come over the wires every minute. These are privately gathered, secretly used and then distributed through the news agencies. Next comes the information in the newspapers, and walking far behind are the statistics published voluminously, many of them needlessly, by the government. Far in the distance are the outgivings of the heavy philosophers, mainly college professors, which have the similitude of the solemn tones of the church organ, breathing virtue and piety.

The things that have happened are not good ammunition for the speculator. By the time the event has occurred it is useless to him except as making a market to sell on.

Yet we have the government departments telling us of prices a month old, or conditions that the alert business man has understood for weeks. And we have still with us the burden and the gloom of months ago in various lines of trade to be incorporated into business plans by merchants and others who have too little imagination to get ahead of the hard and fast facts of the bygone days.

It is to this class of people that the alert speculator in the main sells when he gets ready to quit. The hungry crowd that have just learned what has happened get their financial stomachs gorged with high prices.

"Business is good," says the buyer, "therefore why not buy these issues?"

STOCK BUYING BETTER.

It would appear that persons heretofore hesitating are now going into stocks rather liberally. This idea is borne out by the statements of Chicago brokers of increase in their business.

Tangible facts are here to help out. Wheat is up again, and the Canadians are particularly mentioned as holding on to their product with a strong grip.

In this city there is a decided improvement in the building industry. Little by little the resistence to construction and improvement is melting away. Such being the fact in a city that has been so much disturbed in that respect as Chicago, we may count on the rest of the country to do relatively well.

Chicago Grain Market

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

Chicago, April 4.—Wheat developed strength immediately after an easy opening and prices climbed rapidly higher. Locals sold at the outset when foreign cables came lower. On the setback strong commission houses absorbed the offerings and values soared rapidly. Locals took to selling on high spots, but there was no concerted effort to press the market. Coarse grains picked up with wheat.

Weather conditions were generally favorable. Corn rallied sharply after an easy start. Movement of this grain is only moderate. Exporters were again after the offerings. Oats followed wheat higher. Scattered commission buying of provisions is in sympathy with grain.

Opening prices were: Wheat—May, 1.33 to 1.32¾; July, 1.18⅛ to 1.17¾; Sept., 1.12¼ to 1.12⅛. Corn—May, 58⅛ to 58½; July, 61⅝ to 61¼; Sept., 64⅝. Oats—May 36⅛ to 36⅝; July, 39. Lard—May, 10.55; July, 10.80.

Wheat closed ¼c to ⅜c lower, corn was ⅛c lower to ¼c higher. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower. Provisions were higher.

Town and City Loans

Gardner, Mass., will receive bids until 5 p. m., Thursday, April 6, for $6,000 4¼ per cent. sewer scrip, dated April 1, and payable $1,000 on April 1 each year for six years; and also for $10,000 4¼ per cent. Prospect Street School loan, dated April 1 and payable $1,000 each year for a period of ten years.

Brockton, Mass., has sold a temporary revenue loan of $200,000, dated April 4 and payable November 20, 1922, to the Brockton National Bank at 4.01 per cent. discount.

COAL INDUSTRY INEFFICIENT MANY WAYS

Hard Explains Why Miners' Leaders Have Turned to "Radical" Principles

By WILLIAM HARD, Cosmopolitan News Service Staff Correspondent.

(Copyright, 1922, Cosmopolitan News Service)

Washington, April 4.—The central figure of interest in Washington today is John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who has changed greatly since I saw him in the year 1919 in the courtroom of Judge Anderson in Indianapolis, getting enjoined against "conspiring" to run a strike in "violation" of the "war-time" laws of the United States.

Lewis is by nature an extremely conservative person. The idea that the national leadership of the miners is a "radical" leadership is pure propagandist bunk. The conventions of the miners are fairly "radical."

LEWIS CHANGES VIEWS.

Lewis in 1919 talked very seldom about any such thing as national control of the coal industry. He worked very little at carrying out the mandates of the conventions of the mines regarding the securing of national control for the coal industry. It is to be observed that now he talks about national control quite a bit.

What is it that has made this change in him? He is far from being a theoretical sort of man. He does not talk in abstractions. There is nothing abstract either about him or about Jim Lord, the head of the American Federation of Labor's mining department. They are burly, massive, rugged persons, who deal with situations which are right before them and not with dreams out of books.

What is it then that drives them on toward the advocating of some sort of national control, although neither of them displays the slightest sign of having ever been influenced in the slightest degree by any theory of nationalization in general? The answer is the same answer which accounts for the strong stand taken against the coal operators by such far from radical statesmen as Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey. It is:

INDUSTRY INEFFICIENT.

The colossal inefficiencies of the coal industry and the failure of the coal operators to find any way where these conditions can be remedied.

The coal industry is inefficient—first—from the standpoint of the conservation of national resources. European mining methods get the coal out of a mine and leave the mine empty of coal when the mining of it is finished.

American mining methods take a certain part of the coal from the mine and leave a certain other part lost in the mine at the end of the operation. That lost part—standing in walls and pillars—and not realized for consumption, amounts to an enormous tonnage everywhere.

The coal industry is inefficient—next—from the standpoint of the development of machinery. In thousands of mines the amount of hand work done with picks and shovels—and also the amount of arm and foot work done in pushing cars—is shocking to engineers who, in industries such as the iron ore industry, have seen the introduction of elaborate machines for lightening the physical labor of men and for speeding that labor.

INVESTMENT TOO BIG.

The coal industry is inefficient—further—from the standpoint of investment economy. The amount of money invested in mines and the amount of money invested in railway cars and in railway locomotives for carrying coal away from mines is at least 30 per cent. larger than would be necessary if soft coal mines were operated continuously instead of intermittently.

The coal operators—for many reasons quite beyond their private power—have not been able to regularize the demand for coal in the market. Soft coal comes to the market in waves. There have to be enough mines—and there have to be enough railway cars and railway locomotives—to handle the tops of the waves.

An industry in such a condition, a condition which is not the fault of any individual operator and which no individual operator is able to cure, is bound to produce an agitation for some sort of centralized national control. The bottom of the fight between the miners and the operators today is not wages and it is not hours. It is:

Miners want the industry naturally owned, somehow; the operators refuse national conference, they refuse national control and they also even refuse national inquiry into costs and profits.

The operators are naturally afraid of governmental inefficiency. The miners are suffering from private inefficiency. The country is suffering from it, too, and presently will be suffering also from the consequences of the strike. The administration is watching the strike as it might watch a baseball game.

Ventura Sells at New Record High; Curb Market Is Weak and Active

The Boston market was stronger at the opening than at noon, although whatever reaction there had been was slight. Profit-taking diminished gains in some quarters. Trading was of good volume for this market and had usual breadth. Ventura and Simms Magneto were really leaders. Ventura established a new record high price. Simms sold at its best figure since 1920. Mexican Investment also was prominent in the trading, gaining a fraction. Simms Magneto was the strongest of the trio, advancing almost two points to six. Largest gains included United Fruit two, Calumet & Arizona one, Calumet & Hecla two, Boston & Maine C one, Punta Alegre 1⅜, Atlantic Gulf 1⅛, International Cement one and Eastern Steamship two. Pacific Mills sagged two points and Edison recovered most of a point loss It was a strong market all the morning.

CURB WEAK AND ACTIVE.

The curb market was both weak and active. Leaders were Boston & Montana, Crystal, Eureko and Verde Mines. By noon Eureka was up 2 cents at 29 cents, United Verde Extension ½ at 27¼ and Three Metals 1-16 at 1⅛. Among declines were: Crystal ⅛ at 1¼, Boston & Montana 1 cent at 21 cents, Boston Ely 1 cent at 64 cents, Denbigh 1 cent at 5 cents, Mutual 2 cents at 28 cents, Bagdad 1 cent at 21 cents and Verde Mines 9 cents at 31. At its lowest Verde Mines was down to 27 cents.

HUB MERCHANTS TO BE AIDED BY BUREAU

New Organization Soon to Function Will Also Benefit Public

A new organization, designed to aid local merchants in building up the good will of the buying public, and also to furnish prospective investors with information regarding investments, will shortly be launched here under the name of the Boston Better Business Bureau.

The organization is headed by C. F. Weed, vice-president of the First National Bank; while George B. Johnson, president of the R. H. White Company, will be vice-president.

The directing of the bureau's operations will be largely in the hands of Edward L. Greene, who arrived here recently after directing a similar organization in Cleveland.

CORPS OF GIRL BUYERS.

A corps of girls will be retained to make regular shopping tours throughout the down town district. These girls will purchase goods in various stores, and on their return will report to Greene on the value of the goods for the price at which they were sold, the truthfulness of the company's advertising, and the character of the service rendered.

Greene will tabulate these reports and forward them to the stores in question. A monthly recapitulatory statement will also be sent out.

In any case where a merchant persists in objectionable practices after receiving several adverse reports, investigation will be made to see if legal action cannot be taken against him under the advertising laws.

FREE INFORMATION.

The second branch of the bureau's business will be to furnish free information in regard to securities which are on the market. This will consist simply in tabulating all known facts in regard to any security which is inquired about. Persons desiring to make inquiries are urged to make them through the heads of the concerns where they are employed, or through their banks.

"If you can get the people to look before they leap, you'll put practically all of the wild-cat, fly-by-night investment schemes out of business in quick order," declares Greene. "We will furnish reliable, free information about all securities."

The work of the bureau will get under way about April 15, when John N. Garver of Akron, O., will arrive as Greene's assistant.

PETITIONS FILED IN BANKRUPTCY

Borrowed money, which was unsecured, amounting to $8,000, is the principal debt of Donald H. Church of Adams terrace, Cambridge, salesman, who, in filing a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the Federal court, admitted liabilities of $13,435.55 and assets uncertain. The principal unsecured creditors are the Guaranty Security Corporation, Boston $5,000, and the Metropolitan Trust Company, Boston, $3,000.

Voluntary petitions were also filed by Harry W. Marden and Edward W. Sargent, both of Arlington, who conduct the Medford Hillside garage, Medford, liabilities $12,336.19, assets $3,931.19; Arthur J. Thompson, Willow avenue, Somerville, unemployed, but who was formerly in business in Boston, Lynn and Lowell, liabilities $5,103.95, assets $3,633.72; Henry E. Tilden, Dorchester avenue, Boston, no occupation, liabilities $4,281, no assets, and Edward F. Donahue, Milton, repairing, liabilities $1,968.04, assets $150.

The Foster Cap Company, Inc., Boston, was petitioned into bankruptcy by three creditors, whose claims total $3,018.72.

Coal Output Estimate

In the March 25 week, according to the Geological Survey, soft coal production totaled the most for such period since December, 1920, amounting to 11,437,000 tons. The anthracite output was in excess of 2,000,000 tons. It is estimated that the coal strike will curtail production 1,200,000 tons of bituminous coal daily and anthracite 300,000 tons. The wage loss to miners is estimated at $3,000,000 daily.

TEST ARTIST IS EMULATING THE PITCHER

He Follows a Fast Title With a Slow One to Give Variety

By the Test Editor.

Thirty days more and the Boston American will be prepared to divide $5,000 among the two hundred and nineteen readers who excel in this Famous Titles Picture Test. The awards will be paid in cash.

If, occasionally, you have found the day's problem a trifle more difficult than the average, remember that every other contestant has had the same problem before him at the same time and under the same conditions.

In this Test the artist has emulated the example of the baseball pitcher in the big leagues. He has mixed them up. He follows a fast one with a slow one, or vice versa, a curve with a straight. He does not want to tire you by giving you ten stickers in a row or lull you into overconfidence by sending along a dozen or fifteen easy ones, one after another.

NOTHING BUT TITLES.

Every day there is one title in this List of Titles which fits the day's picture better than any other title in the same list. That title, always, is the Correct Title. Remember that the artist is not considering the poem or recitation. All he has in mind is the title. The book these titles were chosen from contains nothing BUT titles.

When the Famous Titles Test comes to an end with the printing of Test Drawing No. 60 the Boston American will pay the following awards in cash to the 219 readers who send in the largest numbers of Correct Titles:

First Award	$1,000
Second Award	750
Third Award	500
Fourth Award	400
Fifth Award	300
Sixth Award	200
Seventh Award	150
Eighth Award	100
Ninth Award	50
100 Awards of $10 Each	1,000
110 Awards of $5 Each	550
Total	$5,000

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

A few replies to recent inquiries:

Dear Test Editor:

1—In Drawing No. 5 I observe, in the lower left-hand corner, letters which I think may have been meant for an "F" and an "E." Have these any significance in solving the problem?

2—Could the first letter of a word be given as the correct title? To be more explicit, if an elephant, a fork and a goat were illustrated, and there was a title "E. F. G." in the List of Titles, could that be correct?

3—Has the moon in No. 18 any significance?

ROBERT M. S.

1—What appears to be letters are merely the artist's shading; no significance.

2—No.

3—The usual significance.

Dear Mr. Editor:

After looking through the List of Titles with No. 25 I selected "Highland Cattle" as the title which best fits the picture. I found "cattle" to mean "property." This meaning, however, is marked obsolete in each of the dictionaries. I consulted. Would the test-artist be within his rights in illustrating that title in such a manner?

Cambridge. R. N. S.

No; obsolete words and obsolete meanings are absolutely barred.

Dear Test Editor:

Please let me know through the paper if the robbery that is taking place in Drawing No. 23 is during the night or during the day. E. G. C.

Please form your own opinion as to that from what you see in the picture.

Dear Test Editor:

In the List of Titles printed with Drawing No. 20 appears the name "Daedalus." Is the spelling correct? Shouldn't it be "Daedalos?" THELMA.

I find it spelled with the "u."

SCOTTISH FOR "TWO."

Dear Sir:

Please set me right about the title "The Twa Dogs," in the List of Titles printed with Drawing No. 24. Is this a misprint? Should it be "The Two Dogs?"

GRACE E. W.

The meaning is the same. "Twa" is Scottish for "two."

W. R. T., Lynn—If you will send me your address I shall be glad to forward a copy of the picture. It is true the "coupon" was omitted one day, for mistakes will happen, but on the following day we printed an extra coupon and took pains to call attention to it.

W. B., Providence—There is no Sunday edition of the Boston American. Haven't you observed that Drawing No. 4 was printed on a Saturday, No. 5 on Monday, No. 10 on Saturday, No. 11 on Monday, and so on? You are getting all the drawings here in the Boston American, but on week-days only.

O. K., Merrick—Thank you for the suggestion.

Mrs. M. H.—It is quite all right to write the titles for your husband.

E. F. G., Cambridge—The pictures have been forwarded.

FREE TO RUPTURED MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

All ruptured men and women who are fortunate enough to see this announcement will welcome the glad news that representatives of the world famous Captain Collings System for rupture are coming to Boston, Mass., to personally explain and give every ruptured person who applies a trial of the Collings System, absolutely without a penny in advance. You are allowed to test it, try it out and prove its genuine worth—then if you want it, the cost is only a trifle.

Why wear trusses the rest of your life? What you want is to be relieved of your rupture so you can throw your truss away. You are given an opportunity to find out how you can do this by accepting our Free Trial plan. We want a chance to prove to you that the Collings System for rupture is a real, genuine means of relief from gouging, cutting, chafing spring trusses. We want you to try this treatment at our expense, and send our representatives to personally explain and apply it to your individual case. Remember it costs you no money to give this System a trial, and you should be anxious to find out what can be done for you.

A. S. Dewar and Mrs. M. J. Hudson, representing Captain W. A. Collings, Inc., Watertown, N. Y., will be at the Adams House, Washington St., April 6, 7 and 8. Mrs. Hudson will personally attend all lady callers. Hours 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., and 7 to 9 evenings. Cut out this announcement and bring it to the hotel for a free trial.

RAILMEN DENY 'BREAKDOWN' ALLEGATIONS

Refute Charges of McAdoo and Hines at Hearing Opened Today by Senate Committee

By International News Service.

Washington, D. C., April 4.—Refutation of charges by William G. McAdoo and Walker D. Hines, former Federal director of railroads, that a "breakdown" in rail transportation in 1917 forced government control, was begun today by railroad executives before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, emphatically denied that there was any "breakdown" of railroads prior to government control.

"It might well be argued that the situation in 1917 was due to a breakdown of failure of certain governmental agencies to deal effectively with a most unusual and unforeseen situation," Willard declared.

He added that the actual performance of the railroads in 1917 computed in terms of ton miles and passenger miles, showed that the roads had performed praiseworthy service that year.

Willard stator that the principal reason for federal control was the financial cinditions of the carriers "caused by mounting cost of operation and a fixed basis of earnings."

SHAKEUP WILL NET NATION 2 BILLIONS

Ousting of Officials to Speed Tax Collection, Treasury States

By International News Service.

Washington, April 4.—More than a quarter of a billion dollars in uncollected and tested taxes will be garnered by the government this year and devoted to relieving some of the embarrassment incident to the huge falling off in this year's returns, according to estimate made today by treasury officials.

This, it is stated, will be one of the chief beneficial results the shake-up of the business department of the government now in progress.

The summary discharge of James L. Wilmeth, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and 27 of the divisional chiefs of the bureau was a part of this "efficiency shakeup," according to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Secretary Mellon said no charges of a criminal nature had been filed against any of the discharged employes or ousted officials. Attorney-General Daugherty permitted it to become known that a number of Department of Justice operatives have been assigned to the bureau.

The ousted officers have friends in both houses of Congres as evidenced by the resolutions demanding an investigation introduced. If this method does not bring some clarification of the situation, they asserted today, they would carry their cases to the courts to test the civil service law.

FISH PRICES TAKE JUMP I NWHOLESALE MARKET

Fish prices hit the sky in the South Boston wholesale market today. Large cod, which sold as low as 3 cents a pound during the last days of March, soared to 9½ cents. Haddock, which has been as low as 2 cents a pound since lent began, rose to 7½ cents. One trowler and one schooner arrived today, and sold their catches for fancy prices. The crew of the schooner Ruth and Margaret, which brought in 125,000 pounds of cod and haddock, will share more money on this trip than they have seen during the previous three months.

Fight for the Navy Yard

Chamber of Commerce Should Join With Massachusetts Congressional Delegation to Prevent Its Being Closed

Mayor Curley urges the Chamber of Commerce to join with the Massachusetts congressional delegation in the effort to prevent the closing of the Charlestown Navy Yard. That would be a very serious event to Boston and our whole New England community.

We hope that the Chamber of Commerce, the Massachusetts Board of Trade, the Boston Central Labor Union, the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor, the Boards of Trade of the several cities and towns in this State and throughout New England will unite, not only in urging the congressional delegation from New England to oppose the closing of the Charlestown or any other navy yard, but to make the New England congressional delegation fight against such an event.

A united New England delegation using all its resources to prevent the closing of the Charlestown Navy Yard will succeed. We can absolutely depend upon that fact. But there are ways AND ways of opposing things in Washington. And there are as many different results as there are different ways. If you oppose it merely so that the people at home will be satisfied that you have done your best you may or may not succeed in your opposition. But if you oppose it because you really want to defeat it and are willing to do your utmost to defeat it you will succeed.

That is the kind of opposition which the people of New England want to make sure their representatives in Washington will make.

Pacific Mills Statement

Attempt Should Be Made Not to Lower Wages in New England, but to Raise Wages in the South

The Pacific Mills have issued a statement in which it seeks to justify the decision of the textile manufacturers of New England to slash wages 20 per cent. The statement says in part:

> As indicating the difference of the cost of manufacturing between the North and the South, the average weekly wage paid in its Southern mills belonging to the Pacific Mills and making similar goods to those manufactured in our mills at Lawrence, was $14.88 for a week of 55 hours, against the last full week in Lawrence of $22.28 for 48 hours. The wages paid per hour in Columbia, S. C., was 27.05 cents and in Lawrence 46.4 cents. It is true that the Southern company provides houses at low rents and furnishes other advantages to its employes—losing in this way $2.03 per operative per week; but this would amount to only 3.7 cents per hour and is a long way from offsetting the great disadvantage in cost from which the Lawrence mills suffer.

If this statement means all it appears to mean then there is evidence of stupidity on the part of New England textile manufacturers and of the textile labor organizations and it may also indicate some corruption on the part of labor leaders.

But we suspect that the comparison is fallacious, because it compares the wages of skilled labor in New England with the wages of very much less skilled and less efficient labor of the South.

But if the comparison of wages is significant then it is high time that the New England manufacturers and organized labor of New England should unite with the governments of New England to see, not what can be done to lower New England standard of living, but to raise the standard of living in the South; not what can be done to lower New England wages, but to raise Southern wages; not what can be done to increase the hours of labor in New England, but to decrease them in the South.

We fear that the New England textile manufacturers who lament so loudly that the textile industry is flowing from the high levels of Massachusetts to the lower ranges in the South, who raise the cry of Southern cheap labor whenever the New England labor wants to improve its conditions, will not enthuse over the suggestion of raising wages in the South so that there may be no threat from competition of cheap labor south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

When, in Wilson's first administration, Congress passed the child labor law which would have prevented the exploitation of little children in the Southern mills we did not observe that any New England textile manufacturer aided in the passage of the law, nor did we hear the lament from one of them when the Supreme Court struck down this beneficent, humanitarian law in a decision which put property above humanity and in the exercise of an usurped power which some day will raise a great storm that will sweep away the unnatural political prerogatives never given to the courts.

But if the New England manufacturers will do nothing to stop the competition of cheap Southern labor because they are exploiting it in the South, surely the labor organizations ought to stop it not because it is threatening the living conditions of New England workingmen, but because it is both wrong for New England and wrong for the South.

Help the "Sallies"

Money Needed for New Salvation Army Home in Malden

The Salvation Army is again appealing for funds. Thirty-five thousand dollars is needed for a new "Sallies' Home" in Malden.

There are few men or women in the United States who remember the great World War who will grudge money given to aid the work of the Salvation Army. Thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands of men, will remember as long as they live what the "Sallies" did for them "over there." Other hundreds of thousands of men and women will recall while life lasts what the Salvation Army has done for them Over Here.

It is the one outstanding non-sectarian organization which, in the words of the Apostle Paul, is "all things to all men that by this means it may save some few."

Somebody's Birthday

If today is the anniversary of your birth, yours is a personality which should lead you to fame or to infamy, according to the self-control you will be able to apply to an erratic temper and impulsive desires.

You are independent, self-sufficient and intolerant. This is a combination of qualities which is in ordinary circumstances as dangerous as might be imagined, and it should be your one aim in life to control your impulses and shape them to worthy ends.

You are a good judge of character, and you are willing to act with men and women, according to the opinions you have instantly formed on meeting them. You will often trust a comparative stranger, and if your confidence is betrayed you are usually a good sport about it and are willing to accept full responsibility for your error. You are fond of social life when it provides new personalities to satisfy the hunger of your curiosity which is as carnivorous as it is alert.

Today denotes activity for you, and it is a particularly propitious day for buying or selling.

Your ensuing year will probably see you in some difficulties through law in your business. However, you should not waver in quick action, and avoid the courts if possible.

A child born today will be improvident because of its generosity, but will have an irresistible personality.

Famous persons born today:

Linus Yale—Inventor of Yale lock.

Laurence Barrett—Actor.

Thaddeus Stevens—Statesman.

Benjamin Pierce — Mathematician and astronomer.

Leaders in Science

By Garrett P. Serviss

Sitting in a publisher's office the other day I looked long and with deep interest at four portraits hung in a line on the wall.

The men who, side by side, looked down from the wall were Charles Darwin, Herbert Spencer, Thomas H. Huxley and John Tyndall. They were the scientific champions of the nineteenth century, the Ivanhoes and disguised King Richards who could bear down in the lists all the Brian de Bois Guilberts and Reginald Front de Boeufs that dared to challenge the new faith of Evolution.

There was Darwin at the head of the row, standing for the initial of the sentence, whose every letter was weighty with meaning; Darwin, with heavy face, clublike nose, deep-sunk eyes, dull with depth, the beginner of a revolution in scientific thought.

Moral Dome

Next to him hung Spencer, with bare, aspiring, moral dome, curls of electrified hair around his ears, childish chin and a general silk-surfaced look.

Third came Huxley, square-headed, with immense eyebrows, piercing eyes, thick hair, sideboard whiskers and a jaw like General Grant's, the jaw of a man who could and would put a business through. I thought of the times when, first whispering to a friend, "the Lord hath delivered him into mine hands," he intellectually mauled poor Bishop Wilberforce at a meeting of scientists and thinkers into which the bishop had temerariously ventured for the purpose of running at tilt against the new doctrines.

At the end of the row was John Tyndall, carrying a queer roll of whisker, relatively small-headed like Emerson, but like Emerson, too, with a nose that fairly radiated intelligence. In power of exposition Tyndall was the prince of them all. He truly made science a fairy tale.

Specialization

In science, specialization has gone so far since the time of Darwin, Spencer, Huxley and Tyndall that, until a great melting down and refining of the accumulated ore has occurred, there will be no possibility of the rise of a new leader resembling any one of them.

Tyndall could with one hand explore nature and her laws and with the other himself deal out to the public mind, as well as to the minds of his fellow scientists, the integrated results of his work. In this he was doing what Faraday had done before him, but what no original scientific worker is doing, or can do, in any such manner today.

One manifest reason why there are no such towering personalities in science visible today as were seen in the nineteenth century is because the woods are so thick now that the greater trees rise up into a lofty canopy of foliage, where their tops are lost to sight from below. Some who know the massiveness of their bases may make a good guess at the height of their crowns, but the general public will never know their real stature until the world has drifted on through time to a viewpoint whence a backward look may reveal the truth by showing the projecting heads of the giants.

Once-Overs

ARE YOU LACKING IN GRATITUDE?

Copyright, 1922, by the International Feature Service, Inc.

When you are given something, do you just take it as your due, or do you show you are really grateful?

If you were the one bestowing a favor, you would want to know in some way that your effort was pleasing to the recipient.

You would expect a civil "I thank you" even from your own family.

Some persons are effusive for even a small favor coming from one outside of the family circle, but cannot loosen up enough to even smile a grateful appreciation if anyone around home puts themselves out to accommodate.

If your wife says, "You look fine tonight," your face is as stiff and even grouchy as a bulldog's.

If a flapper around eighteen should say the same thing, you would be so confused with complimented emotion you could not say enough to show your delightful egotism.

It is the same way with some wives.

When friend husband praises the steak or the dessert, or his favorite brand of waffles prepared by a painstaking wife, instead of a smile and a "Thank you!" you hear something like this: "Well, it ought to be good, considering how I have worked in that hot old kitchen. I'm not dead!"

Letters to the Editor

Thanks From Red Cross

Editor Boston American:

Will you permit us through the columns of the Boston American, which has already been of such invaluable assistance in the furtherance of the interests of the Red Cross, to thank you most cordially for your help in obviating the crisis which has recently confronted the organization. Your generosity is appreciated, not only by the host of men and women to whom its welfare seems of vital importance, but by the many disabled soldiers and their families whose immediate future has been made secure through your courteous help.

We desire also to express our heartfelt appreciation to the men and women who have given so generously of their time and money to our campaign, and to all of the many others who have in any way contributed to its success. To all such we venture to express the hope that the future support of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter will be secured through regular channels without the necessity to resort to a public campaign.

Mexico

Editor Boston American:

Your editorial on Mexico is good. It is safe to say that the time will come when the United States will sorely need the help of Mexico, Canada and the whole of North America against overseas foes. We must make friends of them all.

RELICS ARE OFTEN SAD PART OF LIFE

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The old mirror was taken down from the wall of the old house the other day.

For fifty years it had hung there, the great, tall mirror, framed in gilt, with cupids kissing each other at the top and little lambs frisking at the bottom of it.

It is a beautiful old mirror and very precious. You couldn't get another exactly like it in all the proud old city where it hung so many, many years.

It was old when it was first hung on the old walls of the old house.

A Wedding Gift

It came from France, they say, in a clipper ship, and was a wedding present from a great French lady to a sweet little Puritan bride.

And the bride took it to Philadelphia to the house her husband had built for her, and the mirror was the principal ornament in the old-fashioned parlor.

On the little shelf at the foot of the mirror there were two china dogs, with great, staring, blue painted eyes, and between the two dogs there was a little person in a gray dress of many colors and a shade hat with long, blue china ribbons.

Many things it has reflected, the old mirror—gay youth, young love, middle-aged comfort and contentment, and, oh, the lonely face of solitary age!

That is why the old mirror is taken down now.

The bridegroom who hung it so many strange and quickly-vanished years ago is gone.

His hair was black when the mirror first reflected him, and he was tall and very straight and full of fun and laughter. He used to like to pose before the mirror like a man dancing the minuet.

And now, the bride he loved so dearly was alone in her age, in the old house.

And she could not bear it—now that the house was empty.

Hair Whitened

And so the bride of long ago called her children around her—the same ones who used to want to make a doll of the little Watteau sheperdess—grown men and women, now, some of them with children of their own.

And they helped her to take down the curtains and pack the books and put away the pictures, and from the old fragile china, they each chose their share. And the little frail bride of so long and long ago has left the old house and gone to live with one of her tall sons—the one who looks the most like his father. And she has sent the old mirror west, far and far.

By sea, the mirror will make the journey, down the coast to Panama, and up the coast to San Francisco, and from San Francisco it will go back into the blossoming hills.

And in the Autumn, when the fruits ripen, I wonder if the old mirror will notice the color of them, and if they will be anything like the colors of the fruits that the little china person carried in the tiny basket, in her little china hand.

Ex Libris

By Zoe B. Faber

To Frank A. Vanderlip has been given with many other enviable gifts, that of being able to condense in a way that is remarkably interesting the multifold complicated happenings which cover the reconstruction period in Europe following the armistice.

"What Next in Europe?" is a little book—so small, in fact, that you may have a passing idea that it can't be very comprehensive because of its size. Just you try reading it and you will quickly discover that it is one of the most comprehensive things that you have picked up in many a day.

Almost without exception, his impressions are first-hand and they are carefully weighed and balanced and then distilled for that which is most important for his purpose—briefly, to give the rapid reading American public all the salient facts of Europe at this time considered solely from an economic standpoint.

Mr. Vanderlip's opportunities for the information he sought were almost unlimited. He conferred with practically all the prime ministers and chancellors, with nearly all the finance ministers and with a host of other influential persons. As a result, the material that he so skilfully presents is confined entirely to facts.

Although he feels that the situation at this time is, in the case of several countries, so overcast that it will require many, many years for a solution, he does believe that there is an economic solution and that given, not assistance, but proper direction, most of the troubled peoples will be able to work out their own particular difficult salvation.

If you want all the facts briefly and clearly presented to you, by all means read this book. It will merit reading and rereading.

GET OTHER PEOPLE'S POINT OF VIEW

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

Every day will be Sunday by and by. At any rate, so runs the millennial dream.

Practical idealism also is based upon the hope that the ideal will will get itself increasingly embodied, until practical affairs are saturated with 100 per cent. of the ideal.

The decent doctor tries to make himself dispensable, teaches people how to keep well, seeks to make health contagious. Churches are working toward the time (still far out of sight) when ministers will be only praise-leaders, voicing the worship of a perfect generation.

Some day we may need no special Thanksgiving Day, because we have become an habitually appreciative nation; nor a specific Independence Day, because we always revel in freedom and glorify it by constructive use.

As for New Year's Day, which is now the occasion for good resolutions, even that will be multiplied by 365, and every day will be a new beginning, every day will the world be made new for us.

New Year's Day

Meanwhile, the first of that month—named for the two-gated, double-faced god, Janus, looking both ways, penitentially backward and hopefully forward — the first of January is still devoted to the encouragement of our dependably backsliding, persistently climbing human nature.

Most of our Governors and many of our Mayors annually tax their ingenuity to issue a solemn proclamation which shall sound as new a note as the new year. But it remained for Governor Baxter of Maine to do something so strikingly original with his official pronouncement as to lift its value to the level of the nation, and to make his proposed resolutions serviceable to all of us the whole year round.

Governor Baxter urged upon the whole people of Maine, regardless of origin, creed and station in life, to enter upon the new year determined to keep the following resolutions:

"To recognize honest differences of opinion and to make serious efforts to get other people's point of view." Nothing startling about that; only decently democratic and enlightenedly selfish. You already have your own viewpoint. If you want to grow intellectually richer, get the other fellow's and add it to yours.

"To credit other people with good intentions." You might think that was easy. But you would be amazed—perhaps—to learn how commonly folks betray their self-distrust, based on inside information, by their suspicion of others—whom they do not know.

"To think and speak well of others." Why not, if you are going to think and speak of them at all? It is a cheap way to increase your self-valuation, trying to decrease the worth of others through your thought and speech.

"To ask no privileges for ourselves which we are not willing to accord to others." That is a cruel request, because it is so much easier to improve the world vicariously, through reforming the other fellow! And yet, in a democracy, even the privileges—let us say of law-breaking—and the responsibility of law-keeping and of righteous living should be equal for all.

Citizen of Maine

"To remember that true personal liberty goes hand in hand with self-control." A great taeching, embodied in a noble and necessary resolution! The only way to freedom is to avoid slavery to passion and desire, and to become the Master of Self and Circumstance.

"To appreciate the great privilege it is to be a citizen of Maine, a State that has no peer among her sister States." You do not mean "peer," Governor Baxter, but "superior." Her peers are all the other forty-seven varieties; and it is our privilege in any of the States, from Maine to California, to make ourselves worthy citizens of no mean community. Even a Commonwealth is, like Boston and Life, only a state of mind!

"To make Maine a law-abiding State that will serve as an example to our country." Your village, town or metropolis is part of your State, your State is part of your country, and America is part of the Human World.

Your way of making each of them a go-and-do-likewise example and inspiration to the others, is to make the utmost of Your Self. If each of us—well, you know the rest. Now do it! Not only in resolution, but in deed!

"To add the Golden Rule to the State's motto? 'Dirigo.'" Down in Maine they all know Latin. Any native will tell you that the State's motto means I direct, I lead, I show the way.

In other words, Watch Me! A good suggestion from Governor Baxter; especially if you will all the better bear watching by becoming a living embodiment of the Golden Rule.
